City Assured of WPA Funds, 385 Get Jobs Back

WINS $23,000 U.S. GRANT FOR FOUR PROJECTS

Other Federal Money Also to Be Released for County; Mayor Calls Council.

PLAN MORE WORK RELIEF

Special Session Friday Night; 2 Jobs to Be Resumed, New Ones to Start Monday.

With the assurance from state WPA officials at Columbus that sufficient federal funds would be forthcoming to place 385 WPA laborers back on their jobs Monday, Mayor Claude M. Hunter today called a special session of city council for tomorrow night to consider additional work relief projects.

WPA officials assured city officials yesterday that approximately $23,000 in federal funds would be released to provide work on four city projects. In addition they said that additional funds would be set aside to allow a county project that has been closed down this week, to proceed.

Resume Water Line Job.

The work program to be started Monday and one that will employ approximately 90 per cent of WPA's certified workers in the city, will include the resuming of the Wood street water line, a $33,000 sidewalk repair program, an $18,000 curb and gutter replacement project and the widening of Glessner avenue at the hospital.

The $80,000 Bellville sewer project which provides work for 135 men also will be resumed Monday, A. H. Moellenkamp, WPA engineer, said. The job was halted last Saturday because of lack of funds.

In the meantime council will consider what portion of improvements to the water distribution system will be made. City officials yesterday assured WPA that a minimum of $11,000 would be spent by the city.

Presents Three Programs.

C. N. Shultz, chairman of council's water committee, will present three different water programs to council tomorrow night. The minimum project with the city's share of $11,000 will include

High blood pressure and a kidney ailment caused death.

The Maharajah owned the world's finest collection of emeralds and the world's most expensive fleet of automobiles.

The gorgeous palaces of Patiala are treasure houses of pearls, diamonds and emeralds. The total value was unknown, even to the Maharajah. He frequently wore jewels worth $1,000,000.

MAKES SEWAGE PLANT CHANGES

Pump Company Installs New Equipment, Eliminates Part of Mechanical Trouble.

Changes in equipment, designed to eliminate mechanical difficulties which have been experienced at the city's sewage treatment plant for the past few months, were partially completed today.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said that installation of three new improved impellors designed to eliminate the clogging of the pumps in the primary sewage line had been finished today by representatives of the Chicago Pump company who have been on the job for the past two weeks.

He said the pumps had been given a complete test under a full load by Ralph Carter, representative of the firm who was in charge of the work, and it was found that they had performed in a satisfactory manner without clogging.

However, a power test placed on the pumps showed that they were overload 10 per cent. The company has agreed to make further changes in the equipment by installing two communiters in the pumps in the hopes that they will eliminate the overload. These changes are expected to be started within the next week or 10 days, Styert said.

In the meantime, however, the final payment on the plant which amounts to $6,089 and which was due Feb. 2, will be withheld until the equipment meets the approval of the designing engineer, George Sowers of Cleveland.

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Three firemen were injured as flames early today destroyed the four-story brick Walton building in the heart of the downtown "golden triangle."

BRITAIN READY FOR WAR, SAYS CHAMBERLAIN

Tells Commons British Will Fight If Necessary, Points to 'Vital Interests.'

GREETED WITH CHEERS

Prime Minister Says Treaty Obligations 'Bind Us' to Assist by Armed Force.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Great Britain is ready to go to war if necessary, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told a crowded house of commons today in a momentous declaration on Britain's foreign policy.

"There are certain vital interests for which, if they are menaced, we would fight," the prime minister said.

"All the same, our object must always be to preserve those things which we consider essential, without recourse to war, if that is possible."

Peace Greatest Interest.

"Peace is the greatest interest of the British empire, but that does not mean that nothing will make us fight," Chamberlain said.

He was greeted with tremendous cheers when he added:

"We know that in war there are no winners."

He warned, however, that Britain might have to fight under existing commitments, without referring directly to France or Czechoslovakia.

"We are bound by certain treaty obligations which entail on us the necessity of fighting if occasion arises," he explained.

The prime minister admitted that his original belief in the League of Nations as an instrument for preserving peace had been "profoundly shattered," adding that "we tried to impose on the League a task beyond its powers to fulfill."

Still Has Hopes.

"I did not cease to believe," he declared, "in the possibility that the league might be so revived and strengthened as to serve as an effective instrument for the preservation of peace. . . . That is not the position today."

He then expressed hope that the

DUFFY ACTS

Asks Board to Give $20,000 to Finance Parole Quiz.

The state emergency board received a written request from Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy today in which he asked that $20,000 be earmarked for his office to be used in continuing the investigation of the parole system, dispatches from Columbus said today.

Two special grand juries, one in Richland county, and the other in Franklin county, are marking time while Duffy attempts to raise the money.

Duffy said he needed the money to run down leads furnished by witnesses who have already testified. He added that unless the amount was given to his department, the two grand juries would be dismissed.

Roosevelt Rests While South's Congressmen Study Threat

(By International News Service)

WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—A detachment of U. S. marines aided the secret service in affording President Roosevelt complete seclusion here today while southern members of congress, up for reelection this year, pondered his open threat to the political lives of those who have opposed major New Deal measures.

Here in his pine mountain cottage at the Georgia infantile paralysis resort, he founded, the president rested on his warning, delivered yesterday at Gainesville, Ga., that:

"To those in and out of public office, who still believe in the feudal system—and believe in it honestly—the people of the United States and in every section of the United States are going to say 'We are sorry, but we want people to represent us whose minds are cast in the 1938 mould and not in the 1898 mould.'"

The president, in his south-bound speech, reiterated his conviction that southern industries and wage earners could not hope to compete with "the north, the middle west and the far west" unless wages and purchasing power alike were definitely raised.

There was no mistake but what he was pressing for congressional approval of a "floor under wages and a ceiling over hours," which thus far has been hamstrung

Misfortune Hits Ondovs Again as Sister's Injured

Kin of Paralyzed Student Who Underwent Spinal Operation, Run Down by Auto, Seriously Hurt.

Adversity continued today to plague the family of Michael Ondov, 24-year-old divinity student who underwent a delicate spinal operation at General hospital last week, as dispatches from Cleveland told how his attractive young sister, Suzanne Ondov, of Lakewood, was seriously injured last night when struck by an auto as she crossed a street.

Michael, who has not yet recovered from the severe nerve and mental shock of the operation last week, and whose condition is described by hospital attendants as "fair," had not been told today of the latest misfortune. His physician believed he is in no condition to stand additional shock, although the operation is believed to have been successful.

Mother Died 3 Years Ago.

Three years ago Michael's mother died. And then unemployment overtook the family, and the father, Andrew Ondov, 68, was able to hold his family together only because he owned a modest little home and had a small pension. Michael, attending Wittenberg college, worked his way through school and graduated with an A. B. degree, and immediately started studying for the ministry at Hamma Divinity school, Springfield.

Last fall he was paralyzed as the result of injuries suffered in an auto accident near Mansfield, and has been in General hospital since then. The father mortgaged their home for $2,000 to finance his son's medical treatment. Of the family only Suzanne was working.

Members of four Mansfield Lutheran churches, clubs and individuals contributed to a fund to make an operation possible for the boy, and as a result, he has every reason to believe that he will walk again.

But last night as the pretty Suzanne, who was in Mansfield last week to "stand by" her brother during his ordeal, was crossing a Cleveland street, she was struck by a car, suffering scalp lacerations and a possible brain concussion. Hospital attendants there said that the attractive typist's condition today was "fair."

Story of Injury Kept From Ondov.

Michael Ondov didn't read the above story about his sister being injured.

Because physicians said the shock of such a story might interfere with his recovery from his operation, The News-Journal today printed a special edition of 60 papers, in which the story of Miss Ondov's injury did not appear. That limited "edition" was delivered to General hospital. No patients there read the story, and thus were unable, inadvertently, to mention it to Ondov.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Congressional action on the Townsend old age pension plan was advocated today by Rep. John F. Hunter (D., Ohio).

FAVORS REPEAL

Senate Committee Votes to Eliminate Profits Levy.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—In a revolt against the administration's taxation policies, the senate finance committee today voted to eliminate the corporate undistributed profits tax from existing law.

The vote was 17 to 4.

Substitution of a flat tax of 18 per cent upon corporation's net incomes, with a sharply lower rates for the "little fellows" in business, including net earnings up to $25,000, was adopted as an amendment to the pending house-passed revenue bill.

In the revolt, only Senators Barkley (D) of Kentucky, Connally (D) of Texas, Bulkley (D) of Ohio and LaFollette (P) of Wisconsin, stood by President Roosevelt's demand for retention of the profits levy.

GRAND JURY'S REPORT DELAYED

Takes Up New Case After Ending Investigation In 11 Actions.

The report of the Richland county grand jury was delayed today while the jury heard a last-minute case which was bound over yesterday from municipal court.

The jury, which was expected to report last night or this morning, recessed late yesterday after considering 11 of 12 cases on the docket. Its report was expected this afternoon following the hearing of charges against Harvey Day, 37, Mansfield, accused of cutting with intent to wound.

MANSFIELD 'HOT MIX' BID CITED

Records of Richland Job Show Firm's Offer Exactly Same as State Estimate.

State highway department figures that a bid of the Mansfield Asphalt and Paving company on a Richland county project was the same as the state estimate were made part of the records today in a taxpayer's suit to prove collusion in "hot mix" bids.

The records which were made public during the taking of a deposition in the office of State Highway Director John J. Jaster, jr., yesterday revealed that the Mansfield firm, a member of the Hot Mixed Bituminous Industry of Ohio, Inc., submitted the sole bid of $17,563, the exact estimate figure.

Awarded in September, 1936, the contract called for the resurfacing with "hot mix" 2.4 miles of route 39 near Springmill.

Jaster and 26 others, including the Mansfield Asphalt company are defendants in a suit filed by Mrs. Agnes B. Dickinson of Columbus which charges that the state was overcharged between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000 on "hot mix." Most of the other defendants are members of the Hot Mix Industry.

Mrs. Dickinson is seeking to recover twice the amount she contends the state lost in excessive prices paid for "hot mix" paving materials.

During the taking of depositions, Jaster said he did not have "the least idea" as to whether

Marian Anderson To Headline City's '38 Civic Music Season

The membership campaign of the Mansfield Civic Music association took on new impetus today with the announcement that Marian Anderson, colored contralto, who has had more world acclaim before the age 30 than any other singer in the annals of music, would headline the 1938-39 program

The announcement was made by Mrs. Marie Marks Porterfield, chairman of the talent committee, after a vote of members signified a preference for Miss Anderson.

The first report of workers in the Civic Music campaign, made last night to Mrs. Paul W. Williams, general chairman, showed that 500 members have been obtained. The campaign closes Saturday night, by which time workers hope to have 1,000 members.

Miss Anderson is the only artist definitely booked at present but Zimbalist, the distinguished concert violinist may be another There will be at least three concerts for the season.

The Negro contralto is one of the very few women of her race who have reached the heights as a classical singer. When Arturo Toscanini, the conductor, first heard her, he is said to have leaped to his feet and shouted that hers was the greatest voice of the past 100 years. At the present time she is one of the most sought after women concert artists of the day.

Death Wish Turns Into Plea to Live

Girl, Willing to Marry Doomed Man, Changes Viewpoint on Life.

By E. E. EASTERLY

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Once Everett Jones wanted to die. Today, with that desire due to be fulfilled within 48 hours, he yearned to live.

Once Jones despaired of the future, perhaps even more than he did today as he paced his small cell in Ohio penitentiary's "death row." He has lived 19 of his 33 years behind iron bars and has a bitter hatred for prisons.

Today, his outlook is reversed by an 18-year-old Springfield girl. Only since he entered the penitentiary this last time, he said, has he learned that she really cares for him, and is ready to marry him—if and when.

If Gov. Martin L. Davey will spare his life, and when he can clear himself of a charge of first degree murder and win freedom from the penitentiary.

The governor is weighing a bizarre story relayed to him by the state board of clemency, which heard it Monday. The story is that 19-year-old Walter Barnes—not Jones—killed Robert Lindsey, a Jeffersonville pool room proprietor, in a robbery last July 4. Jones was sentenced to the electric chair for the slaying.

Barnes pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree murder in the same holdup and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Both Jones and Barnes now contend that the younger prisoner killed the pool room operator.

Jones said today he originally assumed responsibility for firing the fatal shot because he felt Barnes was "a nice young fellow who had much more to live for than I did." He was despondent then and the outlook was bleak, he explained; he did not know then that the girl who has brought him comfort and inspiration in "death row" cared for him.

"I would be willing to sit down in the electric chair and press the button myself if it were not for that girl," he said.

GOOD NEWS

Fair and Warmer, Forecast For Tonight and Friday.

Those welcome words, "Fair and Warmer," told the weather story today. After an afternoon and night of rain, which measured six-tenths of an inch, and sent the mercury down to 32, a bright sun today sent temperatures slowly upward.

The "fair and warmer" forecast is for tonight, and Friday is scheduled to be cloudy and warmer. Yesterday's high was 65, and the average for 24 hours was 48.5, nine degrees above normal.

The official temperature at noon today was 40 degrees, according to Observer Otto Sprunger, but the sun was expected to send it higher during the afternoon. Unofficial readings were much higher than Sprunger's figure.

Eastern Senator Points Out Possible Destruction of Agency's Documents.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Chairman O'Connor (D., N. Y.) announced today the house rules committee would begin hearings Monday on proposals for an investigation of the Tennessee Valley Authority. He said his guess was that "there will be a joint congressional investigation."

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—With the senate and house embroiled in a jurisdiction dispute over the proposed Tennessee Valley Authority investigation, Senator Bridges (R., N. H.) today moved to impound the records of the embattled agency pending congressional action.

Asserting that vital files must be kept intact, Bridges warned that unless congress voted a probe immediately he would seek to have the records seized by court action or senate resolution.

Warns of Destruction.

He again pointed out that the records are "now in complete control" of TVA Directors Harcourt A. Morgan and David Lilienthal, foes of the ousted chairman, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, and renewed caution that destruction of any documents would constitute a violation of the federal criminal code.

Bridges' assertions came as the proposed probe ran afoul of senate-house differences.

The "father of the TVA," Senator Norris (Ind. R., Neb.), announced he would oppose all efforts to have the house join with the senate in conducting the investigation.

This brought an immediate reply from house leaders who declared the house would not only insist on a joint probe but demand that a house member be named chairman.

Display Days In City Stores Open With Easter Near

There was more than a suggestion of Easter today in the display windows of merchants participating in the annual Spring Display days, for not only were styles and merchandise reminders of the Easter season, but the colors outrivaled a basket of Easter eggs.

The three-day event, in which new spring merchandise in all lines will be displayed opened today and runs through Saturday.

Store windows were truly attractive, with suggestions for Easter wardrobes and refurnishings for the home. Colors are even brighter than in other years, while accessories for both men and women, apparently reach a new "high" in gaiety this spring.

Adding interest to store windows are the items which must be identified by those taking part in the Spring Display contest, and which means $50 in cash for the winners.

After entry blanks have been obtained from any of the stores participating, every window must be inspected, the contest item singled out, its price and trade name identified on the blank. A 25-word reason for "why I should buy now" must accompany each entry when it is sent to the office of the Retail Merchants Association, Farmers Bank building. The contest closes Saturday night.

THURSDAY, MARCH 24, 1938.

Europe hopes the Nazi type of week-ending won't become a habit.

Our ideology is growing confused. A manual worker who recently took an office job is denounced as "a traitor to his class."

Too Little Saved.

THE American people refuse to save for a rainy day. Or perhaps they are unable to do so. The Bureau of Labor Statistics provides facts for such conclusions as these:

One dollar out of three goes for food. One dollar out of ten goes for clothing. One dollar out of twenty, for amusement and recreation. The typical family has only about three per cent of its income left over for the church, community welfare and gifts or contributions to persons outside the family. Only forty cents out of every $100, or $5 to $6 a year, goes for educational purposes.

Most families spend more for movies than for reading. There is generous use of free public libraries and inexpensive rental libraries, but the purchase of books is low for a country of the supposed education, intelligence and prosperity of the United States.

The saddest fact revealed is that many families spend more than they receive in the course of a year. "Taken as a whole," says a pamphlet on this subject, "the families of wage earners and clerical employes spent every cent of their earnings in 1936. New York City families spent an average of $96 more during the year than they received. Two families out of every three in Chicago having an income of less than $1,000 spent more than they earned."

It looks as if we need a good deal more preaching and practicing in the matter of income-budgeting.

Editorials Ahead of Comics.

THE Los Angeles Times made a survey among its readers which brought 50,000 filled-in questionnaires and revealed some surprising facts about what newspaper readers like. In the effort to get accurate information, four measures of interest were provided. They were "every issue," "regularly," "occasionally" and "never," with three, two and one points assigned to the first three in that order.

Pictures won the honors. Of the highest ranking ten features among the 176 listed, seven were photographic, with rotogravure sections in first place. The Sunday magazine, local news and national news had the other three places in that first ten.

More than 67 per cent of readers said they read editorials regularly, placing that feature in sixteenth place, with the most popular comic in twenty-first place and others farther down the line. Football was forty-sixth and baseball fifty-eighth.

Men and women divided almost evenly on all items, except where the subject matter had a predominant interest for one sex or the other, such as sports for men and fashions for women.

Los Angeles readers probably do not differ greatly from readers elsewhere. There doesn't seem to be anything in their preferences for them to be ashamed of. Pictures now are very good, and still a novelty. Their appeal is natural. News and editorials rated higher than some folks might have expected.

The Barcelona Horror.

THERE is still some decency left in Europe, as evidenced by the belated action of Great Britain and France in protesting the murderous air raids of Gen. Franco's insurgent air force on the populous city of Barcelona. It will probably not impress the rebel commander, however, nor the Italian and German governments that back him, when the protesting democracies call those attacks "contrary to the principles of international law."

There is no more international law. The only law that the Fascist or authoritarian governments respect is that of their own "will to power." They acknowledge no humanitarian duties except to their own people. Nations, in their relations with each other, have gone anti-social to a degree that would have been incredible before 1914.

What does it matter now that more than a thousand civilians—men, women and children—were blown to pieces in the wreckage of their own homes, and two thousand more were crippled for life? These were the enemy's people, and so fair prey. It is regarded as legitimate strategy to murder and maim noncombatants behind the battle lines, to weaken the morale of the soldiers at the front.

This is more barbarous than the savagery of any primitive tribe now living in the world. It is only "civilized man" that is capable of such conduct. The men chiefly responsible are Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, self-appointed messiahs, and the followers who regard them as almost divine and justify their deeds.

Dolls To Scold.

THERE may be more to dolls and dummies than meets the eye. Clinton Mumby, staff psychologist for the Child and Family Agency in Toledo, O., has had remarkable success with what he calls "play technique."

In handling several unbalanced children, he found that they had been upset by members of their families who were too dominating. The children seemed to feel that they had no lives or will of their own, and didn't know what to do about it, and their bottled-up resentment was doing serious harm to their minds and emotions.

Well, Mr. Mumby provided them with dolls representing the too masterly relatives, and the children were encouraged to vent their suppressed grudges on the dolls. They joyfully proceeded to bang those dolls around and tell them what to do and where to get off. Thus they got the poison out of their little systems and all was well again.

Probably most people, at times, need some sort of whipping-boy. One of the finest things about Charlie McCarthy is the way he serves in that capacity for his interlocutors.

One little refinement of modern war that we can't quite get used to is combatant nations bragging about the number of civilians they kill.

Diplomacy is back to the cave man era.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

A HEADLINE on a business page of The New York Times gives a key to a very pressing problem at present: "Stores would lift sales per worker. Waning volume, rising costs spur varied approaches to old problem. Training held essential . . ."

The last line is the most important. This applies not merely to retail sales, but to manufacturing and to utilities and to railroads . . . and to government.

Tens of thousands of men have been graduated from colleges in recent years—and tens of thousands walk the streets. Why? Business cries more than ever today for trained men—and women. Somehow, if the right persons could be placed into the right positions, we should gain the trained human knowledge so essential to pull us out of our present dead center. The people who walk the streets, despite their education, are not trained for specific jobs because they have had no chance.

It is true that businesses (and governments) are succumbing to overhead. But as long as business and government do not join hands to subsidize talent or ideas or specialists, just so long shall we have the present stalemate—businesses succumbing to overhead and the cream of our youth walking the streets, coming to a dead end.

In future years, we may look back to the folly of it.

TRAINING

It is true that training is essential—specific training, beyond the college training, for each position, each business. This has become a highly specialized world.

But how can youth obtain the training unless jobs are provided for it? It would not harm industry and the government in the least to subsidize, co-jointly, perhaps through a minor tax, the youth who should be in training.

If business and government are to develop in the future so that all who desire necessities can buy them—in short, that is the basis of business—it becomes necessary to produce more at less cost. (This is the Henry Ford thesis, and there has been nothing offered that is sounder, even the most conservative financier will admit.)

As it is, we try to produce an artificial sales volume, through "easy buying," through various trick schemes, which inevitably react on both parties to the "bargain"—and the community as a whole. Such pressure methods bring about setbacks, deep depressions, much suffering.

But, if in the normal course of development of processes and distribution, costs would fall, then we have a natural increase in purchasing power.

BARRIERS THAT RUIN

There are many artificial stimulants that add to the breakdown.

There are combinations to uphold prices, in the belief that high prices create "prosperity."

There are tariff barriers.

There are unions to "protect" wages.

And there is the reduction of production, when inventories become "high."

Those are the broad outlines. Each acts as a brake to a solution.

Now it is a truism that if there were not unions labor would be at less than subsistence wages, just as if there were not combinations the smaller businesses would not survive.

But they have so narrowed their field, in a desire to protect themselves, that they have all but eliminated their markets.

MORE GOODS, LOWER COST

What good will it do to "lift the sales per worker" if the market cannot come to buy? Would it not be wiser to train the producers in industry to develop more goods per man at less cost? Nor need there be fear that would deprive men of jobs. The more better goods produced at lower prices, the wider the market, the more production required.

And as for unions, their present restrictions on apprentices are not saving union men. Rather, those restrictions are destroying unions, for they are destroying industry. In many of our crafts unions, there has been little new blood in a decade. Think of the talent barred, talent that might have led us into new fields, that might have lifted all workers to a higher living standard!

The barriers that both business and labor have erected to protect themselves have proved among their worst enemies.

How Tourist Money Gets Back Home.

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—When you stop to consider how much of Florida is sustained by northern money, spent here during the winter months, you get an idea of what the tourist business means to the people of this state and why they go to such lengths in providing widely varied forms of entertainment for visitors.

Then too, there is at least a hint of how this spread of money serves to benefit the northern communities from which it comes—a localized example being the possibilities thus opened for purchase of Mansfield-made products, such as Westinghouse electric ranges and refrigerators, Tappan gas ranges and Mansfield tires, all of which are coming into this section in increasing volume as purchasing power gains.

West Palm Beach, which basked for a time in the reflected glory of better-known and more dignified Palm Beach, now continues to grow in population and prestige as a result of its own enterprise and initiative—a crying need just now being for more moderate-priced homes to meet the requirements of winter residents.

Aside from the fact that its hotel and apartment-house accommodations are keyed to handle double the city's normal population during the winter months, West Palm Beach is not greatly different from a progressive northern city of 32,000.

HERE, however, there is no question about the need—or practicability—of one-way traffic on the principal thoroughfares, and the Dixie highway divides to two streets—one for southbound traffic and the other for northbound—and there is not the slightest inclination on the part of any motorist to violate this restriction.

Also of interest to motorists is the fact that a police car, equipped with loud speaker, cruises in streets limited to 25 miles an hour speed. It goes at just that speed and if a driver passes it he hears the warning: "Speed limit is 25 miles an hour. Please observe." He does.

MANSFIELD is again well represented at West Palm Beach this season—as usual. Grouped near one corner are Mr. and Mrs. George W. DeYarmon, at the Forrestdale apartments; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley W. Purdy and children, and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Seiler. Also here are Mrs. E. S. Nail, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Orbison, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Keith and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smart and children.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Lucas, who had been making a winter stay here, left promptly for Chillicothe recently, upon receipt of news of the arrival of a granddaughter at the home of their son, Roderick.

Dozens of other Mansfield and Richland county tourists are also listed among those who made brief stays here during recent Florida trips.

The name of Henry M. Flagler, pioneer developer of this Florida east coast, is to be further perpetuated by the Flagler Memorial bridge, a fourth connecting link between the Palm Beaches, which is nearing completion and will be dedicated July 4.

WHILE West Palm Beach, at this season, reflects the crowded flurry of a busy city, a sabbath-like quiet pervades the staid confines of original and reserved Palm Beach, just across the bridge.

Here it is that wealth flowed early and abundantly in the creation of a city that attains as much as 20,000 population during the winter season and then slumps rather abruptly to a meager 1,500 when fine homes and hotels are closed for the summer and only caretakers and a few shopkeepers remain to look after things.

What has been a serious problem in many cities—building restrictions and elimination of business from residential sections—was solved long ago in Palm Beach.

Here there are definite building restrictions that apply to various sections, with inspectors and an "art jury" required to pass on all plans before construction is started and the plans being subject to such changes as the art jury recommend, in order that style of architecture and general appearance will be suitable to the surroundings.

Minimum valuation of Palm Beach homes runs around $10,000 while a half dozen or more are estimated to have cost as much as $3,000,000. Of the 64 new homes built in Palm Beach last year the average cost was around $18,000—highest priced for the year having been $127,000.

ATTRACTIVE in Palm Beach is the three-quarters of a mile of public beach on its ocean frontage, to which thousands of bathers are drawn each pleasant day—and most of the days are pleasant down here at this time of year.

Farther up and down the shore are private sections of beach, use of which is confined to residents and hotel guests—but it is to the municipally-owned public beach that people come from all parts of the country to enjoy a dip and to acquire a richness and expanse of tan that must be seen to be believed.

EVER since its organization as a city Palm Beach has been under city manager form of government, and the same manager—L. Travette Lockwood—has been retained through the more than 20 years. Unlike a number of other Florida cities which were seriously affected by the slump which followed the "boom," Palm Beach has always been able to meet its financial obligations and to continue its unostentatious growth.

Its population is made up largely of retired business and professional men and their families—for whom financial security has ceased to be a problem.

FLORIDA'S recently operative law, which provides exemption from real estate taxes on homes up to $5,000 valuation when occupied by the owners, is giving encouragement to building of many additional small-cost homes in this state, either for year-round or winter occupancy. Some of the smaller communities will probably reflect this particular activity to a greater extent than either of the Palm Beaches—where new homes incline to reach into the higher cost brackets.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Corned Willie" and "Goldfish."

Words are pictures from the past.

Language is replete with reminders of ancient civilization, superstitions that took hold of us when the world was young; beliefs, customs and manners of gone but not forgotten antiquity.

Almost every episode of consequence to humanity as a whole is perpetuated by a word—history in miniature.

So it is fitting that the World war should have contributed to the English language its quota of new usages, a quota which includes among others "corned Willie" and "goldfish."

"Corned Willie" was corned beef till some soldier with a sense of humor and perhaps taste started something by suggesting that the origin of the meat was the billy goat.

"Goldfish" was nothing more nor less than plain canned salmon, rechristened in exalted sarcasm by the doughboys.

FAIR ENOUGH

Mr. Spelvin Asks Not But Pickets.

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

SAN FRANCISCO—As George Spelvin, American, was shaving himself one day last week, all of a sudden, wham! a half-brick fans our friend's ears and busts a gouge of plaster out of the wall.

Mr. Spelvin took a look out the window and saw a whole mob of guys walking up and down wearing signs reading, "George Spelvin unfair to organized labor." "George Spelvin is a dirty fink," "Spelvin is a scab," and so forth.

Pegler

"Hey, what's your trouble?" Mr. Spelvin demanded.

"Boo!" "Lousy scab!" "Fink!" "Rat!" the mob yelled back.

"Why, you no good bums," Mr. Spelvin yelled, losing his temper, "I been a union man 20 years, and most of you dirty bums couldn't even get into a union. Who sent you around here, anyway?"

"The barbers' union sent us," yelled the spokesman. "The barbers declare George Spelvin unfair because he shaves himself."

"Well, that's a hot one," Mr. Spelvin said. "According to that, the barbers ought to beat the ears off the whole crowd of you mugs, because you ain't even washed your ugly mushes in a year, much less bought you a shave."

SOME MORE AT THE KITCHEN

Well, just about then Mr. Spelvin's loving old lady pokes her head out of the kitchen and yipped: "Hey, Pa, come here. There's a lot of bums out in back here walking up and down insulting me!"

"No kidding," said George. "What about?"

"Come on and look," Mrs. Spelvin yelled back. So George went back to the kitchen just as a target egg skushed against the window and some cabbages and things landed on the porch.

"Hey!" George yelled. "Are you guys out of your mind? What's the idea?"

"Your old lady is unfair to organized labor," one guy hollered.

"For Gossakes, brother," George said. "My old lady ain't union, mister, non-union or anything else. Union is just—no, never mind one way or another with her. She's a home girl. She don't have no job. Try next door."

"George Spelvin's old lady is unfair to the laundry workers," a mug yelled. "She does her own washing."

"Oh! Now it comes out," the old girl said. "Well, my hero, it looks like you will have to stake me to laundry dough after this."

CALLED TO JOIN PICKET LINE

"And Spelvin's old lady is unfair to the teamsters," another guy said. "She carries her groceries home from the cash store to save delivery expenses. She is unfair to the bookkeepers, too, by not having a charge account. And unfair to the garment workers because she makes her own clothes.

"And George is unfair to the waiters because he carries his lunch—the dirty fink, scab, rat, bum, boo! And he's a crumb to the bus drivers' union because he walks to work, and the brewery workers are on him because he boycotted them when he went up the pole New Year's. Dirty fink, scab, rat, bum, boo, and so is his old lady!"

George's manhood got sore at that, and he was just about to tear out and start belting when the phone rang. It was George's own union, and the guy on the other end said, "Everybody turn out and picket 222 Slug street. Barbers, laundry guys, teamsters, bus drivers, bookkeepers, garment guys and waiters got some guy down for being unfair. It ain't our headache, but we got to stand together. Bring your old lady, too."

So what do you know? Day after day old George and the No. 1 doll have been flatfooting up and down in front of their own love nest and heaving stuff at their own windows and yelling, "Fink, scab, rat, bum, boo, and so is his old lady!"

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Why Fear and Uncertainty?

By GUS W. DYER.

Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University.

On all sides the "business recession" is attributed to "fear and uncertainty." Different explanations are given with reference to the source of this fear and uncertainty. One explanation is that they are not real, that they are used as an excuse for a capitalist strike against the Administration. This is a partisan, political explanation, and is too absurd to be given consideration. Another explanation is that the fear and uncertainty are without substantial fundation, that they are purely psychological. This explanation is plausible only to those who know nothing of the nature of modern business.

This fear and uncertainty are awfully real and serious from the point of view of industrial progress. Industrial efficiency and industrial progress are absolutely dependent on continuous large investments of capital made for increased service in the future. Hence, faith in the conditions that are favorable to the success of business in the future is, of course, essential to such investments. The essential faith in future business security is not based on "hunches," nor "palmistry," nor "luck," nor political promises; nor on gambler's chances. It must have something far more substantial than these.

Business leaders cannot consistently make investments for the future unless they are based on sound business principles. This means that those who make such investments must be able to determine beforehand with a reasonable degree of certainty the labor cost, the tax cost, the capital cost, and every other essential cost. Up to a few years ago, almost all of the chief costs in production were controlled and regulated by natural forces expressing themselves in natural laws. Since the trend of natural forces is predictable, and since natural forces are incapable of bias or partisanship or favoritism, it was not difficult for business men of ability to predict approximately the chief costs in future production. Even the tax rate could be determined, when taxes were assessed to meet the expenses of the government in the exercise of its constitutional governmental functions.

The security given to business by this ability to predict the conditions, that determine costs is chiefly responsible for our marvelous industrial development. The "fear and uncertainty" that dominate business today are due to the fact that the essential conditions of faith and courage on which industrial efficiency and industrial progress are based have been destroyed, or made ineffective by national political policies.

The purpose of the Wagner law and other policies of the Administration is to take labor cost, which is by far the chief cost in production, out of the sphere of natural force control and regulation, and put it under the control of labor leaders. These leaders are permitted to make any demand they please for an increase in labor cost, and to use compulsion in forcing employers to comply with their demands. Under such conditions it is impossible for business to make any reliable estimates of cost for future production.

In addition, the Administration has repudiated the theory that the government should confine its activities to what has been considered the proper function of government under the Constitution, and is spending billions of dollars in various business promotions and social experiments. The rapidly increasing tax burden on business made necessary by the lavish, wasteful spending by the government, is likewise adding tremendously to the cost of production, and no one can predict what this burden will be in the future.

If business should take a gambler's chance and succeed all of the profits may be taken by the government to pay for some wild experiment.

These untoward political policies are the source of the fear and uncertainty that are paralyzing business efficiency and industrial progress today. "Fear and uncertainty" are the symptoms of a serious political disease that is eating into the very heart of our industrial system. To attempt to cure the disease by concealing and "doping" the symptoms is political and economic quackery.

Health Advice

Noise Abatement Aid to Health

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

MANY OF my readers will recall that a year or so ago several of the large American cities undertook campaigns against noise. I am glad to say that those campaigns have been remarkably successful. Undue and unnecessary noises are certainly less.

The noise of a large city is often unbearable. Unnecessary blasts from automobile horns, loud speakers, radios and other sound-producing devices have caused great distress even to well individuals. They are particularly annoying to the sick and to those who are recovering from illness. For all, noises are an evil. No one can question that noise is one of the factors in the production of certain forms of ill health. A prominent health official pointed out that noise abatement is just as important for the welfare of a community as the purification of drinking water, sewage disposal and cleanliness of the streets and homes. Perhaps this is somewhat far fetched, but it is so important that health authorities have become convinced it is a real factor in health matters.

Investigation throughout North America indicates definitely that noises are greater and more varied here than in most countries across the Atlantic. The worst of it is that much of the noise is unnecessary. We must get rid of all these uncalled for but distressingly irritating rackets.

An Evil Effect.

The evil effect of noise on the human mechanism cannot be disregarded. Experiments with industrial workers clearly show that when noise prevention is enforced in factories, the quality as well as the quantity of the output of the work, is increased. There results much lessening of fatigue and improved health among the workers.

Noises produce increased muscular tension, which in turn leads to fatigue. Of course, there is an occasional person who appears to be indifferent to noise as well as immune to the germs of disease, but unfortunately, such persons are in the minority.

Noise prevention should be taught in the home. I know how children love to make big noises, but perhaps they may be coaxed to join the crusade.

Loud radios at night may be particularly distressing to the occupants of your house as well as the adjacent neighbors. If there is a sick person near your home, he will greatly appreciate the control of your radio as well as your assistance in reducing other unnecessary noises.

Everyday Poems

WHAT LOVE IS

Love is a bonnie thing that drops
Its sweetness deep into
A waiting heart and warms it, cheers
It subtly through and through.

Love is a light; against the cold
It holds its cherished one
Secure; nor can the bleakest wind
Defeat this shining sun.

Love is a shield against despair,
A sword that, flaming bright,
Lifts all the darkness with its dreams,
Its wonder and its might.

DECISION DUE IN REORGANIZATION PROGRAM SCRAP

Senate Votes Today In Bitter Fight Over Substitute For Comptroller General.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The senate will vote today on the most bitterly contested section of the executive department reorganization bill—the proposal to substitute an auditor general for the existing comptroller general and the general accounting office.

Opponents expected the decision on the amendment of Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D., Va., to strike out the accounting and auditing provisions of the bill to be a test of their strength. They claimed growing support for a move to send the measure back to the committee.

The Byrd amendment is the last to be settled. Despite bi-partisan support for it, Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., predicted its defeat and anticipated the bill's passage, perhaps this afternoon.

Serves as Guide.

Byrd's supporters, however, most of whom oppose the entire plans to give to the president the power to reorganize and redefine the functions of the government's agencies and bureaus, claimed that the vote on the comptroller general section would determine to what extent the asserted growing objection to the bill throughout the country has been reflected in the senate.

Opponents cited two tie votes on an amendment to exempt the veterans bureau from the president's powers as an indication of their growing strength. Country-wide opposition, they said, has increased it further.

Meanwhile, Sen. Sherman Minton, D., Ind., planned to call the senate lobby committee into executive session to determine whether Dr. Edward A. Rumely, executive secretary of the National Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government, should be cited for contempt of the senate.

Twice Rumely has refused to comply with subpenas issued by Minton's committee which seeks correspondence records of the organization relating to its intensive lobbying campaign against the reorganization bill.

SHOWS BALANCE

Shelby Report Reveals Increase of $3,000 Over '36.

SHELBY — An increase of approximately $3,000 was shown in the city's general fund balance for the close of the past year as compared with 1936, according to the annual report released today by Bert Fix, director of finance. The balance at the close of the past year was $5,224.87 as compared with $2,260.78 for 1938, Fix stated.

The largest revenue during the year was derived from the municipal electric and water companies, approximately $194,028. Expenditures for the two companies were $117,326, leaving a balance of approximately $37,769, Fix said. Other receipts of interest were fines and costs from Mayor D. B. Young's court, $1,179.10 and licenses and permits, $4,435.

Expenditures included street repairs and sidewalks, $28,712.05; city park, $3,433.59, charities, $4,423.23, fire department, $13,148.39, police department, $11,336.06; board of health, $280.21 and sanitation, $4,520.47.

GIVE PROGRAM

BUCYRUS—A musical program was enjoyed by members of Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood of Crestline who were entertained by members of Good Hope Lutheran Brotherhood in the local parsonage Tuesday night.

Musicians were Cary Ley violinist; Mrs. B. F. Smith piano and Miss Marian Grauel soprano. Fillmore H. Grauel acting chairman, also presented several poems for the pleasure of the guests.

HEAR PROGRAM

PERRYSVILLE—A study and program of German music occupied the interest of the Stullman-Kelly club in its meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ida Grunewald.

Piano duets played by Mrs. Mary Wilson and Miss Pauline Darling, and by Mrs. Charlotte Mohr and Miss Marcia Weatherbee, featured the program of the evening. At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Lucille Craig, with Mrs. Gladys Ackerman pouring.

READY FOR WAR, PREMIER SAYS

Chamberlain Tells Commons British Will Fight In Event of Necessity.

league might be so reformed as to "become a most effective guarantee of peace."

"May I not hope," Chamberlain said, "that the honorable members opposite will agree with me that the best thing we could do for the league would be to nurse it back to health, not only because its original aims were right, but because if only we could make it wider and strong enough to fulfill the functions for which it was originally designed, it may yet become the surest and most effective guarantee for the peace of the world yet devised."

Chamberlain said it had been suggested that for collective security it is not necessary to ensure co-operation of all 58 members of the league to halt aggressors by overwhelming force, but "however, such a policy might be connected with the league if it does not differ in fact from the old alliances of pre-war days."

Britain, he declared, would make no new military committments towards Czechoslovakia.

The prime minister emphasized the necessity for extensive British rearmament.

"If Britain is to make a substantial contribution towards establishment of that peace which I have described as its strongest interest," he said, "it must be strongly armed for defense and aero counter-offensive...

"The size and strength of the forces we build up will be the measure of the contribution we make to collective action for peace, whatever form that action may take.

"I do not see any object in trying to make a difference between armaments required for self defense and armaments required for purposes of fulfilling international obligations...

"Until the day comes when the world establishes an international police force, we must think first of the safety of this country and the safety of the people for whom we are responsible.

"The problem for the government is how best to restore shaken confidence, maintain the rule of law in international affairs, and seek peaceful solution to questions continuing to cause anxiety."

Baltic-Black Sea Axis Step Nearer.

WARSAW —(UP)— Formation of a "Baltic-Black sea axis," a buffer zone of nations between Russia and Germany, appeared nearer today as Poland and Lithuania prepared to negotiate for re-establishment of telephone, telegraph, postal and railroad communications.

Political observers here saw in the negotiations the first step toward the new axis, which they believed might develop into a powerful zone of nations including Poland, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and Roumania.

There was some speculation also as to whether a "Baltic-Black sea axis," though it would be formed as a neutral bloc, might not have a tendency to waver toward co-operation with Germany.

It was announced officially that negotiations for resumption of Polish-Lithuanian communications would start Friday at the Lithuanian frontier town of Suwalki.

Coincidently, it was announced that both Poland and Lithuania now were ready, for resumption of diplomatic relations, with Franciszek Zhartwat, until now Polish minister to Latvia, as minister to Lithuania, and Kayas Schkirpa, Lithuanian delegate to the League of Nations, as Lithuanian minister to Poland.

War Fund Rejection Blow to France.

PARIS—(INS)—France faced a possible new government crisis today amid renewed international tension as the cabinet of Socialist Premier Leon Blum staggered under a straight-arm blow delivered by the senate finance committee.

The government was rebuffed when the committee rejected a demand by the cabinet for an immediate grant of $60,000,000 for the nation's war machine from the exchange equalization fund.

The vote against transferring the money was 17 to two. The majority argued that the European situation, while serious, did not warrant such a drastic step.

Premier Blum may carry his battle on this issue to the floor of the senate today, and a defeat may bring about collapse of his new cabinet, which was formed to tide the nation over the emergency created by Germany's annexation of Austria.

"Popular front" government circles were nervous over the prospect, recalling that failure of the conservative senate to give the government virtually dictatorial financial powers caused downfall of the first Blum cabinet last summer.

A Farmer's Diary

March 23.

TODAY our baby, nine months old, began to walk.

He balanced himself upon his stocky, pink, dimpled legs and made five small, uncertain, tottering steps. When he reached his mother's outstretched arms, he shouted loudly, showed his six white teeth in glee, and begged to try again. This time he made just three steps and tumbled headlong on the braided rug. Frightened and disgusted he kicked and cried, until his mother picked him up.

The first five steps! How we shared with him the joy of discovery and accomplishment! The little feet, so pink and new and perfect, pulled hard upon the dimpled toes until they touched the floor in solid grip. He will soon learn the art of walking—steps will become sure and straight and true. But even then his feet will never learn to keep up with his eager mind—and occasionally he will tumble.

In our hopes and dreams, my wife and I shall follow those tender little feet—way down into the future, where without him we know we cannot be—

"Happy it that we sink not in
The soft and treacherous paths of sin
Happy it these feet be found
Never on forbidden ground."

He held my index finger in so strong a grip that it almost raised his body from the floor.

He pulled hard upon that finger—but still harder at my heart. —By C. A. B.

several extensions to the system in various parts of the city.

A Woodland extension program including new mains and a tank tower to bolster the pressure in that area with the city's share set at $75,000 will be considered along with the alternative of proceeding with the same plan but excluding the tank tower which would not provide WPA labor.

Mayor Hunter said he had called the meeting so that council could definitely decide "just what part of the water program" they were going to go ahead on. He said the committee that visited Columbus yesterday had promised WPA that a minimum of $11,000 would be spent and that federal funds in that proportion would be granted.

It was pointed out by WPA officials that the 253 men employed on WPA projects in Mansfield would lose only four days work due to the shut down here.

Included in the funds allocated to Mansfield yesterday were $5,000 to finish the work on the Wood street water line. This is expected to be completed within the next two weeks. To begin the widening of Glessner avenue at the hospital $1,500 was allocated by WPA. The city's share on the project also is $1,500. The plan calls for setting back the curb 10 feet along the hospital frontage.

To provide for additional work for the next 60 days, $10,000 was allocated for the $33,000 sidewalk repair program and $7,000 for the $18,000 curb and gutter replacement project.

City officials explained that federal funds had been provided to carry on these two projects until June 30, after which other provisions would be made by WPA for the balance of the season.

JAP WAR BILL PASSES, SENT TO HIROHITO

Measure Places All Civilian Enterprises at Disposal of Military Forces.

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—Converting the Japanese empire into an armed camp for the duration of the war with China, the upper house of the Diet today passed the national mobilization bill and sent it to Emperor Hirohito for imperial sanction.

The measure received overwhelming approval in spite of opposition charges its effect will be to institute a fascist dictatorship in this country; with the army council in supreme control during the time necessary for Japan to subjugate China completely.

Already passed by the power house in the face of spirited opposition, the measure will throw virtually every civilian enterprise in Japan into active support of the military force at the front in China.

All Industries Affected.

Every major industry in the nation will be affected, with factories under compulsion to convert their machinery into instruments for manufacture of needed war materials and all citizens obliged to contribute whatever means may be in their power to successful conclusion of hositlities.

Subject only to sanciton by Emperor Hirohito, the bill establishes the war office on an autonomous basis, independent of parliamentary approval in its conduct of the war. Military leaders hitherto have felt they have been seriously handicapped by delays encountered in parilament in obtaining approval of extraordinary expenditures for carrying on the war.

The new bill reaches into the pocket of every civilian and into every walk of life and virtually consecrates the empire to the task of bringing a quick finish to the hostilities in China which already have proved a heavy drain on national resources.

Indicative of the growing national sentiment for emulation of the methods of Hitler and Mussolini, Suehiro Nishio, a member of the social mass party in the house of representatives, was expelled yesterday for making a speech in which he pleaded with the government to "act boldly, like the Fuehrer, Il Duce and Stalin."

His colleague endorsed the plea to emulate fascist precepts but were engaged at his inclusion of the soviet dictator in his address. Both major parties in the house agreed upon his expulsion solely on the grounds that any comparison of Japanese methods to those of soviet Russia was an insult to national dignity.

Nothing Is Impossible Says Professor

Suggests Improbable As Better Word for Expressing Negative Outlook

Should Interest Occasional Constipation Sufferers

The famous World's Tonic is double acting because it helps relieve occasional constipation and acts as a mild diuretic to the kidneys but sometimes the English language seems to have double meanings and quite often is complex. Mr. Davis of Akron is a professor of mathematics. He is satisfied user of World's Tonic. He was discussing the depression and other current events with the owner of the Drug Store where the World's Tonic may be now appearing daily and the word impossible was mentioned in relation to quick business recovery. The professor objected to the word and argued that nothing was impossible as long as time existed. A thing may not happen but there is no proof that it could not happen. Science has performed miracles the medical and engineering world's have done wonders and we don't know what other so-called unbelievable things could or may happen as long as time is in existence. The professor then suggested improbable as a better word which would leave all self made prophets with an ace in the hole, as it were. This word means it is not likely to happen so if you want an alibi to rescue you when the unexpected occurs in spite of your predictions to the contrary say improbable. Then you can claim 'I didn't say it couldn't happen I said it wasn't likely that it would happen.'

See how aptly this fits the situation of Mr. C. F. Neal of 230 Rhodes Ave., Akron, O.

I have suffered so long with constipation and spent so much money on so many different kinds of medicines without wished for results that I had about come to the conclusion that relief for me was impossible. Resulting aches and pains in my back and limbs, gassy bloated sour and upset stomach left me in misery. Rheumatic like pains had me stiff as a board. My first bottle of World's Tonic renewed my hope. Constipation was relieved splendidly and all its consequences are getting the same lovely relief as fast as I could wish for. I think you people are doing excellent work with these demonstrations. They make people think about relief and in a way, this helps them to help themselves."

World's Tonic contains a goodly portion of roots and herbs gathered from various parts of the old countries where many of us and most of our ancestors originally came from.

POSSIBILITY OF LEVY SEEN TO FINANCE RELIEF

Solicitor to Present Several Methods to Council at Session Tomorrow.

The problem of financing relief for the balance of the year will be laid before city council by City Solicitor Marion D. Ward in a special session tomorrow night.

Ward, who with City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, has made two trips to the attorney general's office in Columbus in the past two weeks for information regarding the financing problem, said he would present several methods to council.

He explained that a special election to consider the issuance of poor relief bonds appeared somewhat remote due to election costs of approximately $3,500 which would have to be paid by the city.

The possibilities of a special levy on the August primary ballot was seen as more likely. He said he and Kelley had sought a ruling from the attorney-general yesterday on the consolidation of several issues to be incorporated under one levy.

Fear Levy May Fail.

Some city officials have expressed the opinion that a relief levy might fail at an election and have suggested that several issues be included in the same levy in order to make it more attractive.

Discussion also has been given to consolidating the recreation levy, which was turned down by the voters last fall, along with a proposal for public parks, additional police and the proposed Woodland water project, as a means of carrying the relief levy.

Ward, however said that he believed that it was not necessary to consolidate the issues and was of the opinion that a relief levy "should be presented on its own merits."

Heretofore a majority of the city officials have favored a bond issue for financing relief.

In the meantime, Kelley said that some means of temporary financing could be "worked out" to meet payment of a part of current relief bills. This, he indicated might call for unappropriated funds within the general fund, pointing out that the city was in no immediate need for relief funds. Monthly allocations from the state would more than take care of costs, he said, and current food bills will not be due until the middle of next month.

SENATE, HOUSE IN TVA FIGHT

Tangle Over Which Should Conduct Inquiry; Norris Opposes Joint Probe.

"If there isn't a joint investigation, then there will be two TVA investigations running simultaneously because the house will conduct its own," House Majority Leader Rayburn bluntly declared.

Gives House Assurance.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley, meanwhile, gave assurances that the house would be included, but said he had not determined what legislative course he would pursue.

He said he might attempt to amend the committee-approved Norris resolution to convert it from a senate to a joint resolution, or introduce legislation under his own name.

"As far as I am concerned I am disgusted with the whole business," Norris declared when informed of Barkley's plans. "I am going to ask unanimous consent in the senate today for immediate consideration of my resolution and will fight all efforts to have the house brought into this."

Two attempts to get unanimous consent for consideration of the Bridges-King joint resolution failed yesterday in the heat of senate debate on the government reorganization bill. There were indications similar fate might meet the Norris measure which was approved late yesterday by the senate audit and control committee carrying a $50,000 fund to finance the inquiry.

House Minority Leader Snell charged that Norris, by insisting on the senate alone conducting the investigation, was "trying to kill the whole thing."

"The house must stand on its rights," Snell said.

Chairman O'Connor, of the house rules committee, which has several TVA inquiry measures pending before it, warned that any action by the senate precluding house participation would send his committee into action immediately to launch a separate probe.

"This is a house baby," O'Connor declared. "The house gave birth to, fed, nursed and diapered the TVA. It is going to be in on this."

It was O'Connor who disclosed that the house would insist that it receive the chairmanship of a joint probe if one is authorized.

'No Retreat,' Says Ousted TVA Chairman.

CHICAGO — (INS) — Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, ousted chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, still considered himself a public official today and is willing to put up a fight to prove it.

The former president of Antioch college, O., refused to discuss his next step in his battle with President Roosevelt, but clearly indicated he intended no retreat from his former stand.

That was to the effect the president had no right to remove him from the TVA board. He was reported to have sought advice on that score last evening from Attorney Edwin H. Cassels, an old friend and a trustee of Antioch college, who is an authority on constitutional law.

Dr. Morgan smilingly parried all questions concerning his future plans, but did declare himself willing and ready to substantiate his charges of mismanagement on the TVA before a congressional committee.

HITS $572,000

Real Estate Tax Total Near 100 Per Cent Collection.

Real estate tax receipts in Richland county moved nearer a 100 per cent collection today, with total collections up to this morning totaling $572,064.

Receipts spurted upward yesterday when two collectors from Shelby and mail returns poured $22,295 into the treasurer's office. It was one of the best days since the collection period opened late in February. Books for payment without penalty closed Monday night.

Deputy Treasurer Charles Payne estimated total receipts would pass the $600,000 mark, or more than the tax charge for the first six months of the year.

It was explained, however, that a number of property owners pay for the entire year and that a record collection now may mean less receipts during the second half period.

'SACK BANDIT' BESTS POLICE

Escapes After Hand to Hand Scuffle With Officer.

FOSTORIA —(AP)— Northwestern Ohio's "sack bandit" and Police Chief John Walsh grappled during an attempted filling station holdup here early today but the robber escaped.

The burglary attempt added another depredation to the steadily mounting list attributed to the burlap-hooded figure since last fall.

The robber who carries a shotgun and peers at his victims through slits in his hood specializes in holding up isolated stations at night. On at least two occasions he has fired his shotgun, apparently to frighten victims.

NATIVE SHELBY RESIDENT DIES

Mr. Brooks was born in Shelby on March 8, 1862 and had lived his entire life in this city. The body was removed to the Sutter funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

MANSFIELD 'HOT MIX' BID CITED

Records of Richland Job Show Firm's Offer Exactly Same as State Estimate.

there was collusion in "hot mix" bids.

He presented records which showed that a Belmont county project contract was let to the Tri-State Asphalt association for $37,860, a figure $100 under the only other bid received.

Other records showed that on a Miami county project the only bid was $48,497, or $46 under the estimated cost.

Jaster said that his department discontinued on Jan. 1, 1938, public announcement of contractors obtaining bidders' proposals because "some newspapers had hinted at the possibility of collusion."

Mrs. Dickinson Tuesday obtained a court order restraining Jaster from permitting removal of departmental data from his offices.

Morton Icove, assistant attorney general, said the injunction curtailed activities of the highway department and that a modification of the order would be sought.

Meanwhile a temporary order compelling the state liquor department to cease paying 17 cents a case for trucking of liquor and instead pay a maximum of 11½ cents a case was issued today by Common Pleas Judge John R. King.

The order was issued "in keeping with good business and with good public policy," Judge King said.

Application for the order was filed by Mrs. Dickinson, as a taxpayer, in connection with her suit to recover $350,000 which she alleged had been paid illegally to Shaw Transport, Inc., by the liquor department.

STOCK TRADERS ENCOURAGED BY LABOR REPORT

Note Recovery Signs in Last Month's Increase In Factory Employment.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks attempted a come-back in today's market, but buying response was languid at the best.

In contrast with yesterday's lively sell-off, the ticker tape barely warmed up in the early proceedings.

The market had little stimulating spot news to go on, but some brokerage quarters thought the list might have been oversold and was due for at least a temporary recovery.

Bonds and commodities generally did better. Foreign securities markets were lower.

See Industrial Upturn.

Although gloom pervaded boardrooms before the opening, analysts found one or two faintly encouraging signs on the industrial horizon.

Attention was given the report of the labor department disclosing factories took on about 25,000 wage earners in February, an increase of 4 per cent in comparison with a typical upturn of around .2 per cent from January to February in preceding years.

A further decline of some 100,000 in non-agricultural employment in the second month was revealed, but it was noted the total reduction in working forces was much smaller than for any of the three previous periods.

Advices from building material company officials indicated a substantial pick-up in modernization work over the past two weeks, with a conincidental expansion in applications for federal housing loans.

TRIPLE KILLER SUSPECT SANE

Irwin Loses In Fight To Escape Death Chair.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Robert Irwin is sane.

The youthful sculptor who confessed murdering three persons last Easter Sunday was declared today in a formal lunacy commission report prepared for filing to have been in full possession of his senses at the time of the crime.

The report said he was still completely sane.

Its general conclusions were learned on good authority before General Sessions Judge Freschi handed it to the clerk of the court for filing.

Southern Congressmen Study Warning From President In Swing to Warm Springs.

largely by southern members of congress.

Senator Walter F. George, who opposed the president's supreme court enlargement plan and is now bucking administration efforts to put through hour-wage legislation, introduced Mr. Roosevelt with words of praise at Gainesville for his masterful leadership of this nation's foreign policy while "the world is lurid with war."

George is up for re-election this year. There have been reports he would be opposed by Governor E. D. Rivers, but Georgia political authorities predict otherwise. They say Rivers, who declared his administration "was behind President Roosevelt 100 per cent" ultimately will stand for re-election and not test Senator George's strength.

At Griffin, Ga., the president made a special rear platform speech while Representative Emmet M. Owen, representing the Warm Springs district, introduced him.

The president was enjoying a quiet day at his "Little White House" cottage. As house guests he had Frank C. Walker, financier of the executive's pre-election campaign in 1932, and Basil O'Connor, his former law partner who is now actively heading the Roosevelt-inspired national infantile paralysis foundation.

Woman and Daughter Bruised In Traffic Mishap.

Mrs. Amos Myers, 38, and her 11-year-old daughter Mary Helen, of Olivesburg road, both escaped with minor bruises when they were struck by an automobile while crossing Olivesburg road, at Jefferson avenue at 5:30 p. m. yesterday.

They were taken to the General hospital where they were treated, and then released.

Police were told by the driver of the car, William L. Baltzell, 48 Chestnut street, that Mrs. Myers and her daughter stepped from behind a bus that had stopped at the curb. Baltzell, approaching from the opposite direction said he did not see the couple until they had reached the middle of the roadway. He swung his car towards the curb to avoid striking them, but they were knocked to the pavement by the rear of the car, police said.

The Fellowship of Prayer
Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Thursday, March 24 "And it came to pass on one of those days." Read Luke 20-1-8.

This formula in the text occurs constantly in the Gospels, and was taken over from the Old Testament as a commonplace literary device for introducing a story.

Yet how true it is to the native genius of the Christian religion A British chaplain general, Neville Talbot, wrote, during the early years of the war, a little book on Religion at the Front. If you can get it, it is well worth rereading at this distance It was honest at the first and therefore has survived the sentimentality and the propaganda of that troubled time.

This chaplain was confronted, as we were all confronted, by a wholesale demand for a religion-on-short-notice which should be equal to the occasion. He did the best he could, but said that a religion come at in emergency, and after a period of long forgetfulness of God, could not be the Christian religion, since the religion of Jesus bore the severest test, namely the quiet of normal and uneventful days. We must so conceive of our religion and so plan for it. If we do so order our lives, we may win the large leisure of soul which alone can give the sure insight—"And it came to pass on one of those days."

Prayer: Grant us, O Lord, a deepening confidence in the undated days of life, when we may meet most constantly our Master: through the same Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The guitar, one of the oldest musical instruments, traces its uninterrupted lineage to 550 B. C.

'Mexico for Mexico!' Crowds Cry as Cardenas Addresses 100,000 on Independence.

(By International News Service)

MEXICO CITY—The people of Mexico will defend President Lazaro Cardenas' expropriation program with their lives.

That was the cry, uttered by the president himself, that rang through the country today following a series of demonstrations all over Mexico in support of Cardenas' decree taking over the properties of 17 American and British oil companies.

Cardenas told a crowd of 100,000 persons at Zocalo that the nation must be ready to make sacrifices to indemnify the oil companies, whose expropriated properties were valued at $500,000,000.

'Must Be Respected.'

"Our country must be respected," said Cardenas. "We must occupy high legal and moral ground. Economic sacrifices will be necessary, for without them it would be impossible to obtain the independence which our people demand.

Pointing out that a "press campaign is going on against Mexico in various countries," Cardenas said there was no danger of any armed foreign intervention in this country. But he added:

"The people are ready not only to make an economic contribution, but even to offer their lives if necessary."

Demonstrators Carry Coffin.

During the demonstrations, supporters of the expropriation program, based on a policy of "Mexico for Mexicans," carried a coffin through the streets of the capital to symbolize the "death" of the foreign-owned petroleum concerns.

Foreigners, fearing possible violent outbreaks, kept out of sight in the country's principal cities during the celebrations.

Stock Mart 'Bull' Just a Policeman, Student Believes

ALBANY, N. Y.—(INS)—"A bull on the stock exchange is a policeman." You don't believe it? Some perspiring student chewing a pencil and his nails to splinters while racking his brains for elusive facts, believes it today.

Another is firmly convinced that "the Acropolis is a slap on the shoulder or neck in confirming knighthood."

They are sample answers in the state regent examinations of the state education department. Other gems were these:

"Homer's 'Iliad' is important because it tells of life in the underworld."

"The cause of the 1929 panic was that people were living beyond their means, for instance some people would have a bath for each person in the house."

"Election is the taking of a vote to see whether the people want the nominee to hold his office or his opponent."

"Between 1865 and 1890, the tariff was just right, it suited to the tea."

"In colonial days it took one week for news to get to England from Virginia on horseback."

Link Jailed Youths With Levine Kidnaping

Up and Down THE STREET

Visiting Westinghouse executives, in the city this week for a conference, got a flattering first impression of the city, but members of the greeting committee had a hard time maintaining it, they admitted today. The visitors' arrived on a special train which was backed beside the huge new Westinghouse building where they were greeted instead of at the railroad station. Almost immediately comments on Mansfield's spacious depot were heard, and the official greeters had to confer hastily among themselves and decide on a story to protect the visitors' illusion.

Mansfield industries are well represented in Mexico City, or at least in one of the city's largest department stores. A party of Mansfielders who were window shopping during their visit there recently, stopped before a store which displayed Westinghouse products, decided that it was a small world after all and moved to the next window. To their astonishment the display was entirely of Tappan stoves, but they gave up when they discovered that a third window in the same store featured Mansfield tires.

A friendly feud between some members of the Mansfield police department and Sheriff E. P. Long's staff flared anew today when Patrolman Howard Schuck blamed Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman for a "personal" message that came to Schuck the other day over the police radio. "Things were pretty quiet," Schuck said, "so I was reading a paper in the cruiser near the county jail. In a few minutes I got a radio message telling me to lay down the paper and get going. I know it started from a tip from the sheriff's office," he argued.

No wonder Joe Koozer's eyes nearly popped out when he picked up his cards in a friendly three-handed pinochle match the other night. Twelve of the first 16 cards he picked up were diamonds. That's all the diamonds in a pinochle deck. Koozer's entire hand melded 154, or 1,540, depending on how you count your pinochle, and, adding his playing points, he accumulated better than 170 points. Despite the fact that 16 cards are dealt in a three-handed game, pinochle experts consider the Lincoln Heights resident's hand very unusual.

WARNS DRIVERS

No Time Extension on 1938 Licenses, Says West.

Ohio motorists were warned today that there would be no time extension for obtaining 1938 license plates, beyond midnight of next Thursday, despite the fact that only one-half of the estimated number of cars have been licensed thus far.

Frank West, registrar of motor vehicles, issued the warning, saying that only 1,000,000 licenses have been issued to date, of the 2,000,000 which he had estimated would be sold before April 1.

While Mansfield today was only 713 behind the number of passenger plates issued by this time last year, Deputy Registrar Frank Beverstock said that the total is almost 6,000 behind the number issued before the deadline last year.

Four thousand sets of plates have been issued up to this morning as compared with 4,713 last year. But there were 9,633 passenger plates issued before April 1 last year, which leaves 5,633 to be issued by next Thursday night if 1938 keeps pace with last year.

The registrar's office, North Mulberry street, will remain open in the evenings from 6:30 to 8 on Saturday night and all next week until Thursday.

SEES THREAT IN U. S. NAVY BILL

Tokyo Spokesman Says Huge Arms Fund Singles Out Japs as Chief Target.

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO—A Japanese navy spokesman said today he believed the U. S. navy's $1,121,000,000 expansion bill showed the United States was considering naval operations against Japan.

The spokesman, speaking at a press conference, said "my own view is that if Americans are not thinking of overseas operations they would not need a fleet of that size. Nor do I believe the object of American operations could be any other than Japan."

Self defense still is the basic principle underlying Japan's plans, he added, but he noted "with interest" Admiral William D. Leahy's explanation for the necessity of the construction measure.

(Admiral Leahy, chief of naval operations, told the house naval committee Feb. 4 that the navy at present was incapable of defending both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts at the same time. Subsequently, he asserted the United States has no alliances, foreign committments in defending the United States or defending any other nation.)

Credence was placed in American denials that actual co-operation exists between the United States and Great Britain, but the spokesman added:

"Personally, I think they have something like a common understanding which does not go to the extent of co-operation."

Foreign Minister Koki Hirota characterized as "ridiculous" assertions that many of Japan's fishing boats really were disguised warships.

VANDENBERG CALLS TAX REPEAL 'SPRINGBOARD' FOR PROSPERITY

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., a member of the senate finance committee, asked the administration today to adopt a more conciliatory attitude toward business by working for the repeal of the undistributed profits tax.

He cited the sentiment of a majority of the finance committee, which favors relief for business from "punitive" taxation, and said that the new tax bill should become the pattern of that "new consistent attitude toward business which could recapture prosperity rather promptly."

His statement was made as the committee began to rewrite the house approved tax bill. It will consider a proposal to eliminate the undistributed profits tax and to withdraw the capital gains tax from the general income provisions.

"It would create a 'springboard' toward recovery," he said, "if the administration would be willing to use the 'springboard.' The beneficial effect of a revised tax bill might be mitigated, however, unless the administration is ready to accept the cue.

"I think that the refusal of the administration to accept proposals to eliminate the undistributed profits tax is typical of the perversity with which the administration seems to stick to its economic errors.

"It is unfortunate that the administration has such a passion for saving its face. It is perfectly absurd position for they admit in rewriting the bill that the present law is unbearable and yet at the same time they are making adjustment, they nullify most of the advantages by again proclaiming that the judicial principle is sound and they propose to stick by it."

PLANS SOCIETY

Ex-Mansfielder Would Form McGuffey Group Here.

A movement was under way today to organize a McGuffey Society in Mansfield to perpetuate the memory of William H. McGuffey, noted educator and author of the famed school readers which carried his name.

D. W. Cass of Rocky River, a former Mansfielder and head of the Greater Cleveland McGuffey society, is leading the move here. If organized, the Mansfield society would be a member of the national body.

The national McGuffey society has its headquarters at Oxford, O., where the educator was a professor of philosophy for several years. H. C. Minnich, curator of the McGuffey Memorial Museum at Oxford, is secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Cass, who lives at 257 Arundel road, Rocky River, operated a bakery in Mansfield for 14 years and left here 28 years ago.

POLICE CHECK NEW LEADS IN N. Y. ABDUCTION

Pair Arrested on Extortion Charge Had Planned Snatch Before, Officers Say.

BULLETIN

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(INS)—Fred Luck, 23-year-old chauffeur, and Edward John Penn, high school student, were held without bail for grand jury action today in connection with an alleged attempt to obtain $30,000 ransom money from the parents of Peter Levine who disappeared a month ago.

(By United Press)

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—Police Capt. Thomas V. Kiernan said today that he believed Edward J. Penn, 18, and Werner F. Luck, 23, accused of attempting to extort $30,000 ransom from Murray Levine, had been "in some way connected with" the kidnaping a month ago of Levine's 12-year-old son, Peter.

"The fact that they were contemplating a kidnaping for about six months, according to information given men, shows that they are worth investigating," he said. "However, the mystery of the kidnaping is by no means solved with their arrest."

Tells of Clue.

Kiernan said his informant, whom he declined to name, claimed to have heard Luck mention a plan to kidnap a "12-year-old" boy for ransom about six months ago.

Luck and Penn were taken into custody last Saturday and questioned intensively by G-men and police. Their arrest was announced yesterday, and it was said that they had confessed writing a "kidnap note,, on March 5 in an attempt to collect the ransom, which Levine had announced he was ready to pay.

Police found shoulder-length black hoods, chains with one-inch links, padlocks, a blank pistol and a decrepit rifle in the house in which Luck and Penn lived in North Pelham, N. Y., a village adjoining New Rochelle.

Luck, who has a wife and child, was freed on a pistol charge in his only previous arrest. Penn was put on parole for an automobile theft in 1936. They will be arraigned today before City Court Judge Thomas N. Fasso.

Tax Official Says Failure to Get Stamps Cuts Revenue.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The recession and failure of citizens to demand their sales tax stamps were blamed today by Tax Commissioner Walter Mitchell for lagging sales tax collections.

Mitchell said the tax commission has been severely criticized for not maintaining sales tax receipts at the marks set last year.

"This is not our fault," Mitchell said, "it is the fault of a severe business slump and of Ohio citizens who fail to realize that they are being cheated when they do not ask for their sales tax after making a purchase.

"Consequently, any school boy could figure why sales tax collections have not been up to normal.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

It Took Courage.

WHATEVER the outcome of the TVA controversy, in which there is now a very deep public concern; whether or not, following the president's summary action, Dr. Morgan gets a congressional investigation which will go into the whole ugly mess, whether or not before such a body he substantiates his charges—credit must be given him for being a brave man.

It takes a great deal of courage to stand up personally against the president of the United States. The greatness of the office is such that any man who engages in a personal controversy with any president does so at an enormous disadvantage. It is an unequal contest. No private citizen or any other public official can win such a fight. The things a president can say to or about his opponent cannot be said to or about the president by the opponent.

THE PUBLICITY facilities of the president are immensely superior; his power to present his side overwhelmingly great. Compelling Dr. Morgan to appear before him at the White House, and there denouncing him because he refused to be browbeaten or bullied into a course which would have frustrated his effort to have a real investigation, was taking an unfair advantage of a man who had been his friend, whom he knew to be able, honest and public-spirited. To his face the president could accuse Dr. Morgan of contumacy and sabotage; Dr. Morgan could not accuse the president to his face of being prejudiced and unfair.

NEVERTHELESS, it has been stated by responsible people—and not denied—that Dr. Morgan, now denounced and dismissed, wanted to resign more than a year ago, and so informed the president; that the president persuaded him not to resign; that Dr. Morgan got from the president the distinct impression that, in the controversy between him and his colleagues, the president sided with him and did not intend to re-appoint Mr. Lilienthal. The angry mood in which he dealt with Dr. Morgan recently may easily have been due to Mr. Roosevelt's inner consciousness that Dr. Morgan had a right to feel badly treated by him. In any event, the report of the hearings shows that from the first, though Dr. Morgan's refusal to submit was courteous and respectful, the president's temper toward him was bitter.

IT VIVIDLY RECALLED the Humphrey incident of 1933. In many ways the Humphrey incident and the Morgan incident are so alike as to be almost identical. The late Mr. Humphrey, as a member of the federal trade commission, incurred the wrath of the president because his mind did not go along with his. Mr. Roosevelt demanded his resignation and when it was refused removed him. A year later the supreme court unanimously told him he had exceeded his authority. There is reason to think that this rankled more deeply with Mr. Roosevelt than anything that happened to him in his first term. It was the real cause of his hostility toward the court. It was the inspiration for that provision in the original re-organization bill which would have given him control over all the quasi-judicial boards. It was the reason he haled Dr. Morgan and his colleagues before him. Court or no court, law or no law, apparently he is unwilling to admit that he has not the right to make the minds of the members of these boards and of all other agencies of the government march with his own.

AFTER MANY MONTHS, convinced that the president definitely had gone over to the Lilienthal side, Dr. Morgan made his charges public and asked a congressional investigation. That made Mr. Roosevelt very angry, indeed. Despite the assertion that he does not object to a congressional inquiry, the general effect of the White House hearings has been to make obtaining one a little more difficult and to handicap Dr. Morgan with an adverse White House verdict before he can present his case. So far as he could, the president smeared Dr. Morgan. So far as he could, he exhibited him as an obstinate man who would not co-operate with his colleagues. So far as he could, he has made his charge seem unfounded because he would not submit his data to a president clearly committed to sustaining the other side. It seemed an effort to discredit Dr. Morgan before he could present his facts to an unbiased tribunal.

CONSIDERING the odds against him, Dr. Morgan came out of the White House hearings relatively little damaged. His flag still flies and his refusal to yield under such heavy pressure has aroused admiration and sympathy throughout the country. In the end he seems bound to get his congressional investigation. The friends of TVA as well as its foes agree about that and the president certainly realizes it. He cannot stop it, but he has done his best to affect it. However, the public interest has now reached a point where it seems likely any investigation, with no matter what kind of a chairman, will have to go to the bottom. TVA is a gigantic governmental experiment. Immensely costly, its potentialities are also vast and the pressure for expansion is steady and persistent. Yet the great bulk of the people are in ignorance as to its operation, know little about what has been done, how or why. In view of the fight in the management and the Morgan charges, clearly the public is entitled to light. If there is any way of getting light other than a congressional investigation, it has not been suggested.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The colony's getting to be a real family-minded place, even on the screen.

Several studios, after looking at what "The Jones Family" has done for 20th Century-Fox, already have chimed in with parallel fireside groups. And before long we expect all the lots to have their individual version of those versatile, problem-beset Joneses.

M-G-M is offering the Hardys, who made their bow in "A Family Affair," continued their adventures in "You're Only Young Once," and currently are in the throes of a new one called "Judge Hardy's Children." Like the Joneses, the Hardys "just growed" as a film perennial. The first one was intended to be a program-filler, but it clicked, and the second did better. Now the studio plans a series of 12 features with the same characters—Lewis Stone as the judge, and Mickey Rooney, Cecilia Parker, Janet Beecher, Ann Rutherford, et al.

R-K-O is projecting a series of a slightly different type—what might be called a pre-family saga. Theirs will concern the adventures of a young married couple, but the possibilities of a future "family cycle" are obvious.

The Joneses, as a movie family date from Christmas, 1935. On Christmas eve the first one, called "Every Saturday Night," was completed after 13 days' shooting—a genuine quickie, cost next to nothing. It was based on a little theater play by Katharine Cavanaugh, prolific playwright who worked on this film and the next, then sold the characters for other movie writers to work on. So far there have been nine Jones adventures, with comparatively few changes in cast. Shirley Deane replaced June Lang as the daughter—when June stepped up to the "A" class—and there have been additions such as Russell Gleason, son-in-law, and Marvin Stephens, adopted son. At last reports the players, through long association, were actually beginning to develop a family resemblance.

The screen's "family tradition" dates back a long way to the first two-reelers of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, but the Joneses set off the present interest in movie family life.

MONTREAL DISCUSSED AT SAPPHO MEETING

Mrs. T. D. Brown Gives Paper; Mrs. F. E. Rudd, Mrs. J. H. Bristor Appear on Program Presented at Mrs. Cox's Home.

MRS. F. E. RUDD opened the program with the report of current news yesterday when members of Sappho club were entertained by Mrs. Rupert Cox and Mrs. W. W. Wieland at the Cox home, West Third street. The musical part of the program was under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Bristor who played "Voyerguers" by Paderewski and "The Old Refrain" by Fritz Kreisler.

"Montreal — Greatest Inland Port" was the subject of the paper which was presented by Mrs. T. D. Brown. She spoke of the industrial nature of the city and its two-fold population of British and French people. On one side of the famous Mt. Royal park the city is strictly French—on the other entirely English.

Montreal is a famous educational and religious center, often being referred to as the "city of churches" because it has 250 temples of worship The buildings are all constructed of sandstone and are of a similar height as a result of the zoning law which forbids the building of skyscrapers.

In addition to being a famous winter sport resort, Montreal is one of the world's largest exporters of furs and pelts. The city, according to Mrs. Brown, is a blending and combination of the English and the French cultural backgrounds.

The next meeting of the club will be April 6, the details of which will be announced later.

For Easter In The Country

Going to the country for Easter? Country suits are very smart this year—due in part for their combination of contrasting colors and comparison fabrics. For instance, a blue and white striped jacket tops a blue skirt and a mezzotone rose a wine one. The jackets are casually tailored, the skirts built for comfort and action and worn with a colorful pullover or shirt. This suit combines a green nubby wool gored skirt having tucked seams with a green and white homespun jacket trimmed in alligator and lined in mustard yellow crepe.

GERMANY'S WAR MACHINE WANTS TO BE SUPREME

Women to Be Subject to Call For Arms Under Defense Act; Building Program Pushed.

(Editor's Note: Adolf Hitler is building Germany's armed strength and welding the "home front" into a sharp weapon for the next war. In the following dispatch, another in a series, Frederick C. Oechsner, manager of the Berlin bureau of the United Press, writes that Germany today is preparing for a "totalitarian war" in which the battlefront will be as deep as the nation.)

By FREDERICK C. OECHSNER
(UP Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN—Once more Germany is arming for "Der Tag." This time she does not intend to be on the losing side.

She has drawn blueprints for what may turn out to be the most powerful war machine in Europe, and as fast as factory wheels can turn, those paper plans are being transformed into ships, tanks, airplanes, and forts.

In the next war Germany's battle front will be as deep as the nation. Women will be subject to conscription under the defense act. Every wheat bin, dairy, brewery, electrician's shop and even farm animals will be part of the army.

Ludendorff Idea Persists.

Ludendorff, in his grave, no longer counsels the German general staff out of his experiences in the World war, but one idea he offered them persists. It is the idea of "totalkrieg"—totalitarian war—in which every unit of the nation almost down to babies is considered in the light of its military function.

Among some Germans the idea still endures that in the World war a victorious army was humiliated because of the collapse of the home front. That is why so much emphasis is being placed on welding all units of the nation into a weapon for the next war. It is not a difficult task, for Germans are a military-minded people. They like parades, marital music and uniforms.

No nation is more anxious or more able to guard its military secrets. No embarrassing questions are asked in the reichstag; no opposition party man questions the wisdom of a military appropriation, because there is no opposition party. Adolf Hitler speaks and his words are the law.

Foreign observers say that there now has been accumulated a secret war chest of 1,000,000,000 reichsmarks in gold. Mobilization has been worked out to the most minute detail. One phase of her military preparation that Germany cannot keep secret is the elaborate system of "autobahren," high speed federal highways along which troops can move with a speed hitherto unknown to the military mind. The rapidity with which German troops moved into Austria the other day is an indication of what Germany's enemies can expect.

Chemists Work Feverishly.

The army has between 600,000 and 1,000,000 men with one class in reserve. A wealth of military brains is available despite Hitler's "bloodless purge" of the high command.

German chemists are working night and day to make the nation self-sufficient in the time of war and to perfect new weapons for the army.

Experts are confident that by 1940 Germany will be independent of foreign supplies. She now produces enough food-stuffs to be 80 per cent self-sufficient in the terms of peace-time needs, but some observers believe she could not conduct a war for more than six months on the basis of present food stocks.

The German navy, handicapped by post-war treaty limitations, is beginning to come back. In the next four or five years Germany will have 420,000 tons afloat. It will include eight first-class battleships, 14 cruisers, two aircraft carriers, 40 destroyers and torpedo boats and 23,000 tons of submarines, ranging from 500 to 1,500 tons each.

FUNERAL TODAY

GALION—Funeral services were held this morning at the Gunder funeral home in Marion for Isaac Raypole, 76. He was the father of eight children: Walter, William, Thomas, James, Clarence, Edna, Mrs. Lillian Stall and Mayme Kime, all living in or near Galion. Mr. Raypole died Wednesday evening at the Marion County home. Burial was made in the Marion cemetery.

JAILS POPULAR ON MARKET

EVENING SHADE, Ark.—(U.P.)—The market for jailhouses is bullish. The local jail was purchased by a farmer here and was converted into a cow barn and crib. A Sylamore, Ark., man bought the jail in auction at Mountain View, Ark., near here, and remodeled it for a telephone exchange office.

Don't Neglect Your Child's Cold

Don't let chest colds or croupy coughs go untreated. Rub Children's Musterole on child's throat and chest at once. This milder form of regular Musterole penetrates, warms, and stimulates local circulation. Floods the bronchial tubes with its soothing, relieving vapors. Musterole brings relief naturally because it's a "counter-irritant"—NOT just a salve. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Three strengths: Regular, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

How Hitler Got There—

Ex-Corporal Lands In Prison When Beer-Cellar Putsch at Munich Fails

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

If you don't like Adolf Hitler, you can find documentary grounds for believing he began his political career as a spy sent among communists by German army leaders.

If you like him, you may look on his secret work as a high mission for the Fatherland.

2. This is the second of three articles which bring into focus the guide - posts to Hitler's personality.

A neutral investigator says Hitler was a member of a commission named by war veterans to investigate the post-war communist regime in Munich.

There's not a doubt, however, that the handsome corporal with the handlebar mustaches deserved the confidence of the soldiery. He got the Iron Cross for World war bravery. Twice he had captured, almost single-handed, a score or so of the enemy. Once he was blinded by gas, and once shot up by shrapnel. And he certainly was ready at the drop of a hat to scream his hatred of the Russian system.

Unquestioned Bravery.

Once communist officers were sent to Hitler's room to arrest him. He met them with revolver in hand, and drove them off, an act of unquestioned bravery. The incident got a whopping buildup in Munich beer cellars.

Soon Hitler was addressing political meetings all over Munich.

Meetings developed an electric, even hysterical atmosphere. To an American, Hitler might have seemed a Fourth-of-July orator, a hypnotist, and a Billy Sunday. He was telling native Germans what they wanted to hear and he kept repeating it until they believed.

Hitler quickly developed oratorical tricks, learned to gauge an audience like a magician. Some say he was quick to observe a predominance of women in his audiences, and at such times, would hold out his arms dramatically, shouting:

"You are mine and I am yours, as long as I shall live!"

Mustache Clipped.

Maybe it looks silly in print, but it was not silly to Germany's post-war widows and spinsters. By now the leader had clipped his mustache to a Charlie Chaplin smudge, and his hair fell like a scraggy mop over one eyebrow. But he was a bachelor and he seemed to have plenty of appeal.

The Hitler rallying cry was made to order for him, but not so the symbols, expressions, and dress of his political sect. In the history of national socialism in Austria he found one of its patriachs had adopted the swastika, that good luck sign of antiquity, as the party emblem.

Personal Appeal

Oratorical Fire

Instinct for Drama.

Hitler likewise was watching Mussolini, who then, in 1923, was about to "march" on Rome in a Pullman car. Mussolini's "shirt" idea appealed to Hitler for purposes of regimenting the uniform-loving Germans.

Before long there blossomed out the German workers national socialist party, with initials, in the German language, spelling "nazi." Then came the "borwn shirts," the "storm troops," and Hitlerism was an accomplished fact.

Before long, Hitler had declared a 25-point objective, with Jew-baiting, repudiation of war guilt, the Versailles treaty, and reparations, as cardinal principles.

The growing beer hall gangs soons were clashing with communists, were deserving their proud leader's nickname of "storm troopers." So confident did he and his nazis become that they decided to take a short cut to power.

The Futile Shot.

The desperate job began in a Munich beer cellar on November 9, 1923. Hitler worked the meeting into a bedlam. Then he paused, dramatically declaring the German republic at an end.

"The time has come," he shouted. "I can save."

With that he fired his pistol at the celing and the beer - cellar putsch began.

But Hitler had miscalculated the temper of German troops sent to the scene. The soldiers followed orders to fire on the Nazis and killed nearly a score. The putsch was over. Hitler, the new messiah, became a laughing stock.

Enemies gossiped that Hitler fell to the ground so hard at the first sound of firing that he broke his shoulder. Neutral observers said he was pulled to the street by a dying comrade, and broke his shoulder that way. But also there was the story how he risked his life to carry a child to safety. Whatever happened, Hitler escaped, but was captured in a few days and tried for criminal sedition.

In 1924, he was sentenced to five year in prison with four of his leaders, and it looked like lights out for Hitlerism.

But, strange as it may seem, the ex-corporal was soon to prove he was the kind of a man you can't laugh off.

Tomorrow: Success.

'ICE SKIFF' AIDS GUARDSMEN IN RESCUE WORK ON LAKE ERIE

(By Associated Press)

SANDUSKY—It takes more than a frozen lake to suspend operations of Ohio's doughty coast guardsmen.

Although hemmed in by ice for several months each year, members of the Marblehead station, north of here on Lake Erie, remain on regular duty, prepared to rush to the aid of fishermen caught on outward bound floes, or intrepid islanders, trapped by weak spots in the "ice bridge" to the mainland.

Since heavy ice renders their three power boats useless, guardsmen enact winter rescues with the aid of an "ice skiff"—a small open boat equipped with metal runners on the bottom.

The craft is pushed over solid ice, and propelled by oar through stretches of open water.

Where less severe weather conditions make it practical, an eight-man surf boat is employed, in addition to motorized units.

Other winter activities, while not so thrilling as rescues, still are essential to the coast guard, Capt. W. E. Holmes of the Marblehead station asserted.

These include repairing and replacing equipment, drills in seamanship, resuscitation and navigation, and periodic checks of the coastline. Each crew member stands guard in the lookout tower for two hours a day.

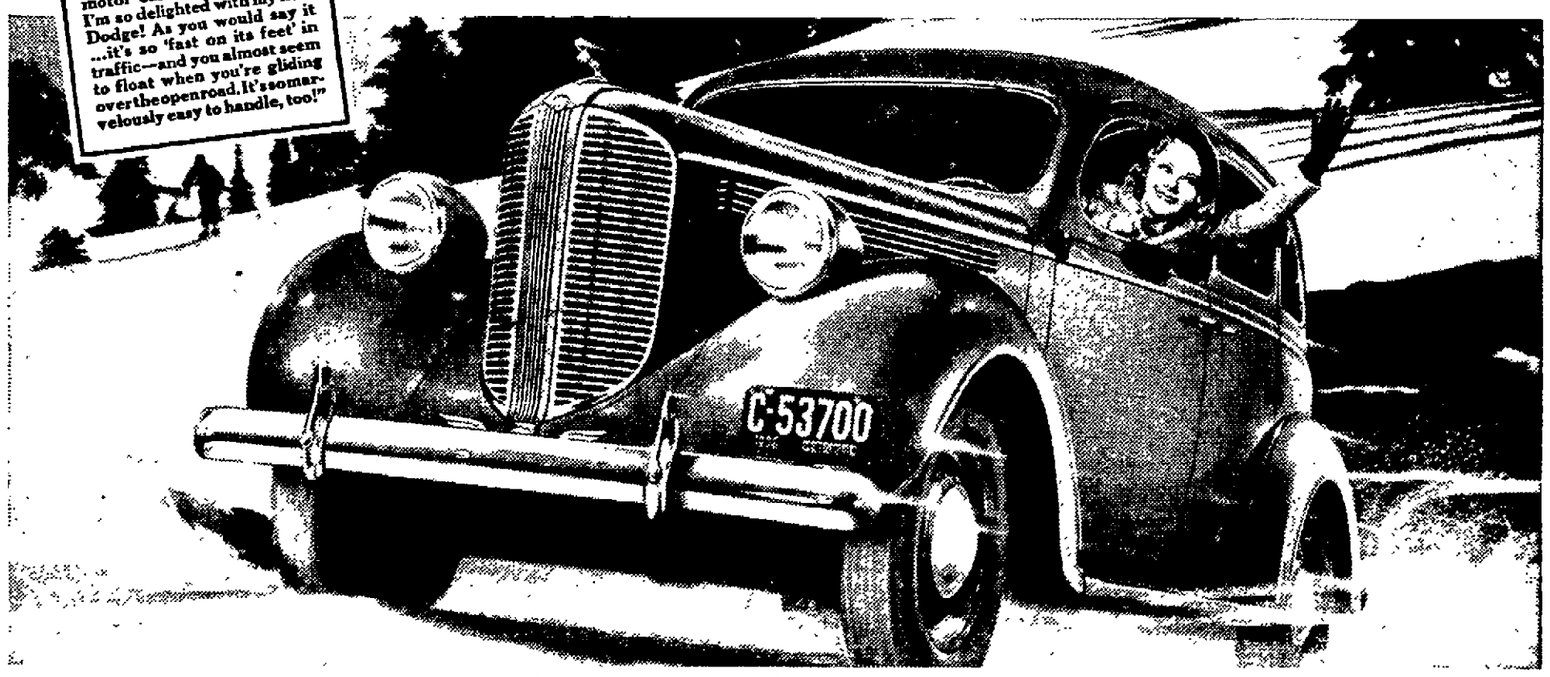
READ WHAT SONJA HENIE SAYS:
"I have always admired anyone who is full of life and action. Naturally I admire those same qualities in a motor car—and that's why I'm so delighted with my new Dodge! As you would say it ...it's so 'fast on its feet' in traffic—and you almost seem to float when you're gliding over the open road. It's so marvelously easy to handle, too!"

"I GO FOR ACTION! I DRIVE A DODGE" says Sonja Henie

STAR OF 20TH CENTURY-FOX "HAPPY LANDING"



"IT'S A SONJA HENIE ON WHEELS!"

THANK you, Sonja Henie... that's magnificent praise from the Queen of Action—the girl whose grace and ease have thrilled more millions than any other sports performer who ever lived!

And the new Dodge? Well, there's no better way to describe it than to say, "it's a Sonja Henie on wheels!" Yes, sir... just five minutes in the driver's seat tells you that. For you've never swung the wheel of a car that responds to your will so alertly. And "alert" is the word. For that's how easily this new Dodge handles... how deftly it turns... how eagerly it answers to the gentle urge of your fingers.

AND NOW LET'S TALK PRICE!

Did you say durability? Economy? They're both here! For under the hood of this streamlined beauty purrs a giant of velvet power! Dynamite in kid gloves! Battleship ruggedness in silken wraps! A money-saving powerhouse which owners everywhere say delivers from 18 to 24 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

If you're thinking of paying more money for a car, remember this: Dodge actually costs far less than some cars that do not give you as much. Or, if you think your purse-limit is one of the smallest cars, Dodge is priced so close to the low-priced cars that you'll hardly notice the difference!

THE SECRET OF DODGE DEPENDABILITY

Have you ever wondered why Dodge cars have such a great reputation for dependability, ruggedness and long life? The answer lies in the fact that for years Dodge has deliberately engineered and built its cars not only for the first owner, but for the second, third and even fourth owners! In fact, records show that Dodge owners who buy new Dodge cars every year or two years use only a fraction of the total mileage built into them! That's just one reason why 142,922 new car buyers have switched from other cars to Dodge in the past year. And that's also why those who really know used car values are saying the Dodge used cars offered by Dodge dealers are the finest buys on the market.

Consider Long Engagements Unwise

By VIRGINIA LEE

It seems to be the favored opinion that long engagements are bad.

Couples do occasionally survive them ,marry and "live happily ever after."

But many young couples find, after too long an engagement, that they no longer care as they did, and the engagement comes to an end — sometimes with one or the other feeling pretty upset and unhappy.

A young girl still in high school wants me to help her arrive at a "sensible decision" to just this problem — a long engagement. Should she accept a ring when she graduates, if they cannot be married for three years or so? The young man is several years older than the girl.

BELOVED'S FIANCEE: I agree with your mother, dear, that it is a long time to wait, but after all, I do not see why you shouldn't accept the ring and take the chance. You certainly are very much in love, have your plans all made, and seem to me to have the balance necessary to endure the long wait happily and be ready for a happy home at the end of it. It will be hard, of course. Don't think I don't realize that.

You may change, your beloved may change. And that is a very good reason for not marrying until you can set up your own home. I think you would find the secret marriage very unpleasant. It would put you both in a false position, and would be very hard to keep secret. It might make you sick of marriage before you ever have a chance to live together, and there might be other complications.

I think the "sensible" thing to do is to accept the ring—which won't be given you for some time yet—and let things ride. One never knows what is "just around the corner." Things may work out so that you can be married before you think.

It is possible, too, of course, that one of you will "fall out of love" with the other, in the meantime, but why court trouble? It is perfectly possible you two young things will enjoy a happy engagement and at the end enter joyfully into the "holy state of wedlock." The best of luck, my dears

SUBSCRIBER: I hope you will recognize your answer. You did not give me a nom de plume to use and I did not like even to use your initials. A letter I used in this column recently would help you to bear your cross and show you how one person solved the problem. The letter was from a man who had fallen in love with a woman. Both were married, and would not break up their homes.

You see you cannot afford to take the risk of seeing each other occasionally, as you suggest. Too much depends upon your integrity. Neither of you can risk bringing suffering upon your loved ones. Such things come out in spite of all precautions. And then life would never be the same. You both MUST be true to your trusts. You are unhappy now, with a gnawing hunger to be together. You are suffering, but it would be much, much worse, if you should try to satisfy that hunger.

Write to me when your feeling seems about to get beyond your control. Let me be your safety valve.

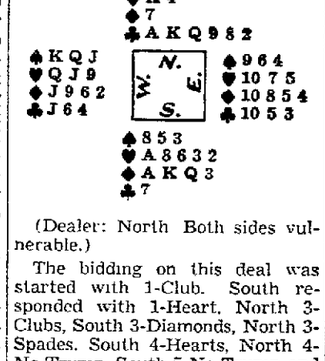
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A LESSON TO REPEAT

One lesson worth repeating is on the importance of counting losers when you are playing a suit contract. So many may seem to be in hand that the task appears hopeless. But if some of them can be ditched on a set-up side suit, or ruffed with the dummy's trumps, perhaps the number of losers may be cut down to the desired size.



(Dealer: North Both sides vulnerable.)

The bidding on this deal was started with 1-Club. South responded with 1-Heart, North 3-Clubs, South 3-Diamonds, North 3-Spades. South 4-Hearts, North 4-No Trump, South 5-No Trump and North 6-Hearts.

When the spade K was led and won with the A, the hand looked rather hopeless to the declarer, as one trump trick would certainly have to be given up and as soon as control was lost, the losing spades would be cashed. The declarer saw one chance, however, If the clubs were so divided that three rounds could safely be cashed without a ruff by the opponents, the spades could be disposed of. When this proved successful, South led a diamond to the A and immediately ruffed his losing diamond. The heart K was next cashed, followed by a spade ruff and the heart A. One trick was then given to the opponents, it being the only trick they were able to win.

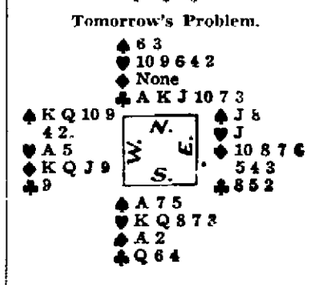
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

With a heart bid by South, a spade by West, 4-Hearts by North and 6-Hearts by South, doubled by West, what lead would you be likely to make?

A new beauty box containing two different shades of powder which are blended together with a soft brush, is now being sold at the beauty counters. The whole set costs about $3.50 and in the store where you buy it an expert will tell you which two shades to use and how to blend them.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, March 25.

A DAY of singular and most intriguing atmosphere is read from the predominant stellar influences. While these may not be sinister, yet they may be baffling and perplexing, requiring alertness and clear vision to unravel their mystery or possible seductiveness. Likewise, there are spiritual interpretations. Writings, business contracts, finance and social matters all partake of the unusual, secretive, subtle and elusive, although much pleasure or gratification may be expected also.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which there may be many unusual predicaments, with intrikue, perplexities and hidden roots to delve into. While there may be subtlety and deception, there also may be less sinister phases, possibly of an emotional, imaginative, idealistic mystical or altruistic nature. Gratification and pleasure of a social, intellectual or spiritual nature are also in store.

A child born on this day may have a very idealistic, imaginative and quixotic nature, with subtle, mystical, emotional and intriguing depths which might find expression in some curious creative channel. It may love culture and also social and sentimental relations of spiritual quality.

If you have burned the food you were cooking, change quickly to another pot and set the vessel in cold water. This will take the burned taste away. Then reheat the food before serving.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

MARY WAS making such a tremendous effort to lift me out of the "Slough of Despond," into which the episode of the drunken woman had plunged me, that I was mightily ashamed of myself for yielding to the primitive emotional storm which had just shaken me

I had but one consolation. I had betrayed no trace of that storm to Mary. I had been calm and controlled to all outward appearance when I had greeted her as she came into the living room from her shower But I had an uneasy suspicion that her keen, shrewd brain was fairly cognizant of my raging up and down the room as might some prodded and tortured feral animal. There is enough of the savage in Mary, also, to make her both comprehending and sympathetic when she recognizes another woman's problem.

Must Put on "Show."

But my pride and self-respect demanded that I "put on a better show" for Mary, for the employes of the hotel and for Dicky, when I should next see him. With that incentive, I resolutely turned off all my mental switches except the ones necessary to carry out my resolution. I went into the bath room, relaxed in a tub of water as hot as I could stand; then followed it by a hot shower, gradually lessening the water from tepid to cold, and finished with a tingling ice-cold shower that left me feeling braced and ready for anything.

When I had finished, Mary's 10 minutes were up, and I tapped on her door.

"Are you ready for the fray?" I called, making my voice cheery and nonchalant.

"Sure thing!" she answered blithely, "but —" she evidently consulted her wrist watch—"surely you haven't had your 10 minutes rest yet." She looked at me reproachfully through her opened door.

Doesn't Need It.

"I don't need it," I told her emphatically. "I had my tub and tapering-off showers, and—"

"Say no more!" Mary retorted, pretending to shiver violently. "Those icy finals of yours leave me cold, and I'm not perpetrating any pun, either."

"I'm glad you explained," I told her, laughing "for I was all prepared to slay you. That one was worse than any your uncle ever inflicted upon us."

"It must be terrible," Mary said with a wide grin, "for he sure holds the championship for putrid puns."

"Undoubtedly," I agreed, smiling. "But I'm glad you agree that I don't need any rest. In reality, I'm 'raring to go,' so don't dawdle over your dressing!"

Mary shot a shrewd if furtive glance at me, then nodded ever so slightly, and I knew that I had "put over" my regained composure.

"Okay!" she drawled "but"—provocatively—"remember I'm a 'quick change.' That's part of my so-called profession. Therefore, I won't propose a dressing race with you."

"I wouldn't want one," I countered "After all, we want to be 'glasses of fashion and molds of form' when he sally forth—"

"To give the natives a treat," Mary interrupted, wrinkling her nose at me. "All right, Lady Vere de Vere! , Take all the time you want, but be sure you get into a rig that will slay 'em—regularly mow 'em down in rows"

Household Hints

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Menu Hints.

Leftover Meat Louf or Stew
Cabbage and Green Pepper Salad
Quick Coffee Cake
Cheese Jelly Coffee

If you serve the stew you probably won't want potatoes, extra potatoes, I mean. Bake some potatoes if you have the meat loaf. As the coffee cake is sweet I would serve jam or jelly, or stewed fruit with it for dessert, plus some cheese.

Today's Recipes.

Leftover Meat Louf—Slice cold meat loaf and place in greased baking dish. Pour cream of tomato soup over all and reheat in a moderately slow oven (350 degrees F.).

Leftover Stew—Place meat and vegetables together with gravy into a casserole. If vegetables are not diced, cut them into half-inch cubes. Cover with baking powder biscuit rounds and place in a hot oven until biscuits are baked and meat and vegetables are reheated. Remove the centers from hard rolls. Fill with stew meat and vegetables together with a little gravy. Heat in oven.

Quick Coffee Cake — One cup flour, one-half cup sugar, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half cup milk, one egg, four tablespoons melted butter. Sift dry ingredients together and add liquids. Mix into very soft dough Spread on baking sheet so that the dough is about half an inch thick. Sprinkle top with cinnamon and sugar and bake in 425-degree oven 15 minutes. Serves four and makes a hit for Sunday breakfast if served hot with butter.

THEATER

PARAMOUNT will attempt what no other producer ever has, that of bringing King Arthur's Round Table Knights to the screen. The motivating theme will be Sir Launcelot, his friendship with King Arthur and his love for the queen . . . Sonja Heine played to 5,000,000 on her winter personal appearance tour . . . Stan Laurel and his Russian bride, Illeana, open their personal appearance tour in Chicago . . . George Brent will play the hero in Warner's "Valley of the Giants", which has been made in a picture several times . . . Jimmy Cagney, who is canny about money, is building a new home in Coldwater Canyon, but it isn't a "Hollywood" house . . . It will have only seven rooms. Cagney's permanent home of the future is a farm at Martha's Vineyard . . . Bette Davis and Carole Lombard are only two "glamor" gals in filmdom that are willing to sacrifice all trace of beauty for a scene . . .

Variety of Talent.

The Follies Gay Paree, which opens at the Ohio theater Friday for two days, isn't all girls and frills, for there is a wide variety of talent listed on the program, ranging from lasso-and-whip experts to a trained dog. Helene Miller is billed as a "high class gal who sings low down tunes"; Buck and Chickie "Make Whippee" in an act of remarkable stunts with the lasso and whip, in which their trained dog, "Timber" takes part; "Bessadonna" is a puppet manipulated so cleverly by Al Goldie that it seems real; Mlle Yvonne Le Rouz is a provocative dancer whose "Pas Chiffonaise" is a dance highlight of the show; then there is Roscoe Ails—not to be confused with stuttering Roscoe Ates—, who masters the ceremonies, aided and abetted by Betty Lewis, radio entertainer, and a swing band. The film program is topped with "Arsene Lupin Returns", with Warren William, Melvyn Douglas and Virginia Bruce.

Sympathetic Role.

Although he forgets his mother who has sacrificed everything for him, James Stewart plays a sympathetic role in "Of Human Hearts", the early Ohio drama which is the current attraction at the Madison, and only for a brief time does he lose the sympathy of his audience. That is when, after he makes a name for himself as a physician and surgeon, he forgets the woman who had made his education and career possible. The sweep of the Civil war, and a letter from the mother to Lincoln, is instrumental in bringing the two together again. Walter Huston plays the sort of role he likes best in the father who is hard and unsympathetic toward his son's ambitions; and Beulah Bondi plays the mother. The picture is presented under the auspices of the University Women of Mansfield, and runs through Saturday.

A Star at Polo.

Joe Brown manages to get into his usual difficulties by bragging out of turn in "Polo Joe," which returns to the Majestic Friday and Saturday. Joe boasts that he is a "11 goal man" in polo when as a matter of fact he is allergic to horses and gets hay fever every time he gets near one. But he is jockeyed into a position where he must either make good on the polo team or loose the girl of his heart, so he makes the effort, and as always in Joe's picture, emerges triumphant through a hilarious fluke. Carol Hughes and Skeets Gallagher are his chief suporting players. A Western, "God's Country and The Man," in which Tom Keene plays the two-fisted hero, is the second feature.

Familiar Names on Bill.

Charles Rogers (still much better known as Buddy), Betty Grable, Fibber McGee and Molly, Mary Livingstone, Rufe Davis, Ned Sparks, Akim Tamiroff, and a flock of other well known names are linked up in "This Way Please," a story of a pretty usherette and a band leader, which the Ritz offers tomorrow and Saturday. The shapely Miss Grable, who is married to Jackie Coogan off screen, and Rogers, who is ditto to Mary Pickford, find romance on the starboard side of the footlights and after many complications brought about by well meaning friends, manage a happy ending. The Three Mesquiteers in "The Trigger Trio" provide thrills of the great open spaces as the second attraction at the Ritz.

Shopping with Wynnie Wynchel

A few fashion ideas for the business girl . . . Of course you want a tailored suit. I can't stress too much the importance of accessories in obtaining individual and interesting combinations. Chalk stripe woolens are good in both suits and coats. So are the simple checks in jackets with plain skirts. Colors you'll like in accessories are the much publicized straw tones with gray and dark colors, bright yellows to pair with gray or black — rosy wine or luggage tan with navy. There are many reefer variations, and you'll want one most suited to you. The interchangeability of jacket costumes makes this a lucky season for the clever girl with a small wardrobe. For dressier wear, you should have a good basic black dress to work wonders with. Evening dresses to charm your new beau should be light, floaty and crisp in sheer, net or taffeta. Don't slink in the Spring!

40 TAKE FINAL CITIZENS EXAMS

Federal Examiner to Conduct Naturalization Test at Courthouse Monday.

Final naturalization examinations for 40 Richland county applicants for citizenship will be given Monday at the courthouse, Norman P. Henry, deputy clerk of courts, said today.

The tests, which will be conducted by T H Stapenhorst, Youngstown, federal examiner, will include questions pertaining to the constitution and the United States government. Applicants will be given hearing before Common Pleas Judge C H Huston to determine whether they have met all requirements of citizenship.

Successful applicants will then be given the oath of allegiance to the constitution by Clerk of Courts Fred R Zellner and later will receive their citizenship papers at a reception in their honor.

To be eligible for citizenship, applicants must be at least 21 years old, residents of the United States for five years and of the county in which the application is filed for six months.

RAINS "DRY" IN OREGON

SALEM, Ore. — (U.P.) — Oregon rain is dry rain. That is how a CCC enrollee from Georgia described it in a letter to his family. When the youth gave the letter to the camp educational instructor for correction, he was asked what he meant by "dry rain." He replied, "In Georgia rain pours down, but in Oregon it rains a lot drier."

CHANGES CAST OF OPERETTA

Senior High Director Shifts Two Male Leads and Adds Five Players.

Changes in two roles of the cast of "The Bells of Capistrano," the three-act operetta to be presented April 8 in the Senior high school auditorium by the school's music department, and addition of five other students to the cast, were announced today by J. Merton Holcombe, director.

The lead male role in the production will be taken by Harold Duda, who replaces David McGinty. One of the featured male roles, in which Duda was first cast, will be taken by John Gano.

Students added to the cast are Mary Alice Meade, Max Miller, John Stretch, William Lewis, and Paul Davis. Lewis and Davis are both cast in the same role, the former playing the part in the afternoon and Davis in the evening.

The feminine lead will be played by two girls, June Statler taking the part in the afternoon, and Kathleen MacIntosh in the evening.

The afternoon performance will be given for school children and the evening for adults.

DEADLINE SET

BUCYRUS—Friday April 1, has been set as the deadline for payment of the first half year real estate taxes in the county, County Treasurer M. W. Quay has announced.

Approximately $205,000 has been collected to date with $150,000 still due.

Personal property tax returns must be filed within the next seven days, County Auditor C. C. Metzger has warned, the dead line closing March 31. To date 2,100 have filed returns out of an estimated 4,000.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

NEW YORK—(AP)—It's a good thing evolutionary man did not descend from a plant, instead of an animal.

Otherwise vitamin B might do strange things to him. Probably sprout roots, maybe make his hair grow.

The power of the vitamin in plants has been discovered by three California Institute of Technology botanists, F. W. Went, James Bonner and G. C. Warner. They experimented first with auxins.

These are plant hormones, chemicals manufactured by plants. When a plant is dipped in one, it grows roots on that part. Even the stem near the top above ground will put out a batch of roots.

To auxin the Californians added aneurin, a form of vitamin B 1. This is the nerve vitamin for human beings. But in plants it doubled the number of roots. Where auxin alone would add eight roots, the vitamin increased the count to 16.

Other "essentials" of man's health also showed ability to increase roots. These were some of

Want to Know Why You're Constipated?

Would you give a million to shake off that dull, dopey played-out feeling that often comes with common constipation? Then stop a minute and think.

What have you had to eat this week? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? Probably the reason you're constipated is you don't get enough 'bulk.' And "bulk" doesn't mean how much you eat. It means a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines which helps a bowel movement.

What to do? Eat some Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. This crunchy toasted cereal is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains both the intestinal tonic vitamin B and iron.

Eat All-Bran every day and drink plenty of water. See if you don't get off your heels and on your toes! Kellogg's All-Bran is sold by every grocer.

MEDICINE GETS PICTORIAL HELP AT UNIVERSITY

Visual Records Prepared as Guide to Future Treatment at Medical Center.

(By United Press)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Artists and photographers skilled in their trades—are being employed by the University of Indiana Medical Center here as recorders of progress in experiments and treatment of various diseases at the university laboratories.

Visual records prepared daily by the small staff, known as the pictorial historians, are being used in guiding treatment of mankind in the future, to illustrate books and magazine articles and to aid in the instruction of medical students.

James F. Glore, young Indianapolis artist, whose work in the field of medical drawings is becoming widely known, heads the staff of seasoned workmen who labor daily behind an office door marked, "Illustration. No Admittance Except on Business."

Photography work which provides step-by-step records of treatment of patients, microphotographs, motion pictures and other material of permanent value to the profession, is under the supervision of Herbert Salinger, for 25 years an Indianapolis commercial photographer.

Camera Not Successful.

Since the modern camera is unable to make clear pictures of the human anatomy, Glore's artistic touch is used regularly in drawing tissues, nerve systems, bones and blood vessels in explaining the story intended to the trained eyes of the university's medical men.

During the progress of interesting or important surgical work Glore often is seen as an observer, sketching and making notes in preparation for a permanent sketch.

A graduate of the Chicago Art Institute and a member of the University staff for six years, he is regularly called into cases by staff members when an unusual condition presents itself in the course of treatment. Work of the Center's illustration department is supported by a research committee.

In discussing the illustration department, Glore explained that "Its primary purpose is to provide complete and permanent records. Pictures that tell history of cases under treatment or observation in the hospital are almost indispensable for guidance.

"This is particularly true at the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for children, where treatment is required to continue over a number of years," Glore said.

ASKS $50,000

Stenog Sues Martha Raye's Manager for Heart Balm.

HOLLYWOOD — (U.P.) — Peter Baumann, manager of Martha Raye, film comedienne, is being sued for $50,000 breach of promise by Nancy E Dixon, 20-year-old St Louis stenographer.

Baumann recently was sued for $150,000 in an alienation of affections suit brought by Peter F Reed, father of Miss Raye.

Miss Dixon alleged she and Baumann became engaged in St. Louis on June 15, 1936, and that the wedding day was set for last Dec. 25 She charged she advanced $150 to Baumann so he could come to Los Angeles where he assertedly proposed to enter business, and thereafter she came to Los Angeles only to be told that the wedding would not take place.

RECALLS GRINNELL HISTORY

GRINNELL, Ia.—(U.P.)—The oldest living woman graduate of Grinnell college, Mrs. T J. Noll, 83, Grinnell, recalled the smallest graduating class in the school's history when she was reminded that the present senior class, one of the largest in the school's history, numbers 153. The smallest class was in 1873, when all 23 members were expelled and only two returned to graduate.

LOST LADY + + +

By GEORGE E. HOLT

CHAPTER XXVI.

Inquiry for Sue during the evening resulted in Mercedes telling everybody at Rancho La Luz that Sue had a headache and had said she was going to bed. But she was solicitous enough to go to a room she knew to be vacant and return with the word that Sue was sleeping.

And, through a trick of fate, Sue's flight was not discovered that night through her note to Murray. For just inside the entrance door to Murray's room there chanced to be a small grass mat, and when Sue had slipped the note under the door, it slid under this mat. And there it might have remained until the servants found it in cleaning the chamber had it not happened that Murray, the following morning accidentally dislodged the mat a trifle and noted the white envelope beneath it.

In a dozen breaths he was in the presence of Don Vicente, seated on the veranda, holding the note out for him to read, but saying no word.

And what Don Vicente read was this:

"Dear Murray:

Believe me that I am grateful for all your kindness and for—the rest—— but I see plainly that it is impossible for us to be even friends. My 'record' would ruin you, as it very well may ruin me, even though the charges are untrue. Good-bye.

Sue."

"Oh!" sighed Don Vicente. "This is too bad. The poor child. She must be found at once, Murray. She must."

"Are you telling me!" ejaculated Murray, not as a disrespectful reply to the old Don, but as an exclamation. "Where does the girl get that stuff? You don't suppose—" He checked himself in time. He had recalled that he saw Sue and Mercedes in conversation under the big tree the preceding night, and had not seen Sue thereafter.

"How could she have left?" he asked himself. "She couldn't walk from here to Tijuana—and I can't think of any place she could go."

"I think," said Don Vicente, "that I had better make some inquiries. Mercedes might know something, but—" He too checked himself on the verge of an indiscretion. Don Vicente was a wise old bird. "But I think I shall inquire first about the cars. Francisco had permission to drive to Tijuana last night."

A peon was working in a garden some little distance away.

"Ho, Roque!" Don Vicente called.

"Send Francisco to me at once."

"Si, Don Vicente," and Roque departed swiftly, to return beside a dark youth who took off his hat and approached Don Vicente.

The mastor of La Luz said nothing for a moment. He merely stared at the eyes of the peon, until those eyes became furtive.

"You went to Tijuana last night, then?" asked Don Vicente at length.

"Si, Don Vicente, to Tijuana."

"Alone?"

The question was gentle, but Francisco stared. He looked away for a second, then faced Don Vicente's eyes.

"No, Don Vicente, the American Lady went with me."

Don Vicente pulled his beard, and was silent. Being a wise old bird, he saw the sort of ground he was on and stepped warily. No reason for Francisco to be embarrassed if he had merely obeyed the request of "the American Lady" to take her to Tijuana. Don Vicente's original suspicions were increased, and he swerved swiftly away from the shaking ground he felt ahead.

"Where did you leave her?" he asked.

"At the Hotel de las Rosas," replied Francisco.

"Hm! Murray, let's lose no time. Better get your car out at once. I'll tell your father."

Murray hastened to the garage—and Don Vicente again turned his stern gaze upon Francisco.

"At whose request did you take the American Lady with you?"

"The—the Senorita Mercedes—asked me to do so," Francisco replied.

"Then why are you bothered about it? You did only your duty."

* * *

The youth was silent awhile, awkwardly rubbing his foot backward and forward.

"Speak!" commanded Don Vicente.

"It was—it was only that—that I did not think the American lady—wanted to go," stammered Francisco. "And—and that she—she was very sad. I thought——"

"Yes—you thought . . . . What?"

"Pardon me, Don Vicente—but I thought that—that the Senorita Mercedes was—was making her go away, that is all."

"Very well," said Don Vicente. "You have done well. You may go."

"And so," he said to this beard, "that's at the bottom of it!" He sighed. He, too, had wanted Don Murry Kilbourne to be a member of his family—to be a son. But he was old enough to know that that sort of thing is not in the hands of the gods.

As were other matters—as, for example, what had happened to Sue.

* * *

Gregorio of the One-Ear was passing the Hotel de las Rosas in Tijuana, intent on keeping an appointment with Red Vasquez, when he was hailed by an acquaintance.

He stopped then, with irritation, started onward again. He had recognized the fellow as one for whom he had little liking—and Vasquez did not like to be kept waiting.

But the fellow seized him by the sleeve and detained him to ask a question. A question of no importance to this story save that it detained Gregorio in front of the Hotel de las Rosas, when he might have been far past it.

Gregoria replied to the fellow, started to turn to continue his way, then stopped and stared and blinked.

"Por Dios!" he exclaimed. "That is the Senorita Carmen, or I am Pancho Villa."

Hence, through this little trick of fate, Red Varquez, ten minutes later, was in possession of the news that the Senorita Carmen was at the Hotel de las Rosas.

Sue had gained the hotel, believing herself unnoticed by any one. True, two men had been standing talking in the shadows at some little distance, but, wrapped in a black shawl as she was, her face well covered, she thought there would be little chance of any one recognizing her except at close quarters.

And so, secure, as she thought, in the room she had been given, she relaxed and considered the situation. She could not, she knew, remain in Tijuana a single moment longer that was absolutely necessary. She should in fact, she reflected, leave the hotel at daylight, be at the gates of the Line the moment they were opened . . for she could not be safe until she was north of the border. Yes, she would have to arrange for a taxi for daybreak.

What course she would pursue, once she was safe in San Diego county, she could not decide at the moment. Oh, well, that would keep. And then, as she undressed and got into bed, her thoughts irresistibly returned to her talk with Mercedes, the harsh words which had shown where she stood in the eyes of others, which had sent her racing to the dangers of Tijuana to avoid the looks of those whom she had looked upon as friends. And to escape Don Murray. Don Murray, the man she had loved! Yes, why not admit it freely? Especially now that she had given him up forever.

At last, in the little room at the Hotel de las Rosas, a girl cried herself to sleep.

Book of the Week

"AFTER MIDNIGHT," by Irmgard Keun (Knopf, $2.)

One had as well give up expecting to get facts about the current regime in Germany. This reader has had a theory for a long while, and that is that one learns more about such a situation through fiction than through history, so called. But fiction in Germany seems to have divided itself two ways—on one side we have adoring reflections of Nazi ideology, mostly not translated into English; on the other we have the expression of the anti-Nazi group, mostly published in Amsterdam in German, and immediately translated into English.

Irmgard Keun's "After Midnight" is in the latter class. It is a short book, misnamed a novel by its author or its publisher. It is supposed to be the story of German life as it is lived today, written not from the Jewish position, but from the viewpoint of a sensitive "Aryan."

It actually is a gently venomous attack, and although the attack may be justified (we have not been in Germany since 1930 and have no means of direct judgment) it vitiates the "novel" and spoils the effect.

The narrator is a German girl chosen (perhaps by design) because, although she has moments of sensitivity, she really is pretty dull. She is impressed, ostensibly, by such things as shiny motor cars and the clothes of movie actresses.

She has an Aryan friend who is in love with a half-Jew, and the friend has a curious and quite dangerous complex—she insists on baiting all her Nazi friends. These also are made uniformly dull.

The entire scene is reported on a basis of triviality. It is obvious even from this distance that, however misguided certain Nazis have been, there must be a core of some sort which is solid enough to produce results -- granting that the results are not uniformly desirable.

The point is not that Miss Keun is wrong in her attitude toward the Nazi movement, which is not an essential point and probably could not be proved true. The real mistake is much more serious: Miss Keun has not needed to devitalize her book by the manner in which she has approached her subject.

Somebody from the outside will have to tell the truth, apparently.—By J. S.

PROBLEM FOR BILL – TOO MANY PADISTS?

Perhaps Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, has too many catchers. Anyway, that's Bill's problem. Ours is to say that the boys in the picture are, left to right, Catchers Ted Duay, Gus Mancuso, Jim Sheehan and Harry Danning.

Cubs Might Provide Trouble, But Can't Beat Giants--Terry

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

BATON ROUGE, La. — (U.P.) — Right in the sanctum of "Terrible Terry," the steely-eyed, emotionless, call-a-spade-a-spade manager of the New York Giants, the National league pennant was wrapped up and marked for delivery Oct. 2.

It goes to the New York Giants by courtesy of Bill Terry, sometimes the most misunderstood man in baseball.

Analyzes Race.

Smoking his pipe of contenment, Terry coldly analyzed the National league pennant race in the Giants' favor.

"All you have to do is look at our club and compare it with the others to understand why I think the Giants will triumph again," he said. "I figure the Cubs will be the toughest opposition, and even they haven't improved any. Pittsburgh won't be any better unless young Rizzo improves their outfield. The Cardinals are liable to be tough but have plenty of problems to solve.

"Go over the Giants. In Danning and Mancuso we have the best catching staff. Our pitching staff is far away the best. Hubbell and Melton will win more games than any other two pitchers in the league. McCarthy is the best all-round first baseman in the league outside of Camilli. Whitehead is next to Billy Herman at second. Bartell and Ott are the league's best at short and third.

"In the outfield Joe Moore bows only to Medwick. Lieber in center is liable to outshine everyone else in the league. Ripple is the league's greatest right fielder. Our replacements are good all around. If we have the league outclassed then why shouldn't we win the pennant?"

There are question marks Terry didn't seriously touch upon. Chief among them are: Who will take Slick Castleman's place on the pitching staff if he can't play because of his back operation?—Will Whitehead's play be affected by his appendicitis operation last month?—Can Ott stand up at third?--Will Danning live up to Terry's expectations as No. 1 catcher?—Can Leiber come back after last year's slump resulting from a blow on the head by one of Bob Feller's fast balls?

Sold on Baker.

As for Castleman, Terry expects young Tom Baker, obtained in a trade from Brooklyn to take his place. Terry believes Whitehead will be O. K. He doesn't worry about Ott. If Danning hits up to expectations, Terry says he has a chance to keep Gus Mancuso on the bench permanently. Lieber's showing thus far reassures Terry.

FOUR TYGERS BUNCHED IN SCORING FIGURES

Scott Leads Hallabrin, Dials and Lyons, Tied With 114, With 116 Points.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

FIGURES reveal why opponents found it difficult to consistently trottle the offense of the Mansfield high school hoopsters during the recent season climaxed by the appearance of the Tygers in the state finals.

As it is unusual for teams to depend on more than one or two players to supply the majority of the points, the Tygers presented a problem for their adversaries.

None of the Tygers was a spectacular or a consistent scorer, and the points compiled by the Tygers in their games were usually pretty well divided, and, consequently, made it difficult for the opponents to center their defenses on any one or two men.

Season figures show that three Tygers are tied for second place in the individual scoring, with the leader only two points ahead. In other words, four of the five regulars are grouped within only two points of each other in the totals. This is unusual, to say the least.

Tommy Scott paced the Tygers in their 22 games with a total of 116 points, and Johnny Hallabrin, Elmer Dials and Jack Lyons figure in a three-way deadlock for runner-up with 114. Jack Dugger, the other regular, trails with 72 points.

THOUGH converting slightly less than half of their attempts at the free throw mark, the figures show that the Tygers had three fairly dependable tossers from the charity line in Ike Smith, Hallabrin and Lyons.

Smith converted 12 out of 19 shots for a .632 percentage, Hallabrin 40 out of 68 for a .588 and Lyons 32 out of 56 for a .571. None of the other Tygers who appeared in more than a few game was able to make good even half of their throws.

The individual scoring for the season follows:

	G	FG	FT	MG	PF	Pts.
Scott	22	50	16	18	50	116
Hallabrin	22	37	40	28	47	114

MARTIN'S 'MUD CAT' BAND STEALS GEHRIG SHOW

By HENRY McLEMORE

ST. PETERSBURG—(AP)—Not since the women's national horseshoe pitching championship ended in riotous hair-pulling several years ago has St. Petersburg's artistic, social, and sporting circles been so stirred as they were last night when Lou Gehrig's first motion picture, "Rawhide," was given its world premiere.

Today the artistic group buzzed with appreciation of the manner in which Pepper Martin, outfielding maestro of the St. Louis Cardinals, conducted his "mud cat" band in the incidental music that accompanied the picture. For the overture, Pepper chose that difficult Arkansas classic, "Willie, My Toes Are Sore."

The sports lovers — well, they could talk of nothing else but Gehrig's superb performance in the smash scene of "Rawhide"—a scene dramatic in its sweep and breathless in its action. In this scene, Gehrig, attacked in a pool room by a band of crooked cowboys, subdues them with billiard balls. One by one they fall, their skulls cracked by Gehrig's perfect pegs.

FOR some reason or another Gehrig is shown very little on horseback. But on those occasions when he is, he rides with the sureness of a true Bronx bronco buster. Unfortunately for those who would like to watch Gehrig on horseback, he always seemed to mount his horse near a big tree and immediately ride behind it.

I will remember the premiere as long as I live, if only for that breathless moment at the close when Conductor Martin and his boys played "Possum Up a Gum Stump."

Vander Meer Still Seeking Location of Plate

But McKechnie Believes He's a Sure-Fire Comer, Attempts to Correct His Wildness.

By DILLON GRAHAM, Associated Press Sports Writer.

TAMPA, FLA.—The Typical American Boy is still wild. Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati's handsome young lefthander, has perhaps as much stuff as any rookie down under the Florida sun but he seldom knows where the ball is going.

Last spring Vander Meer, who was the Typical American Boy in a National league film several years ago, was tagged as a great prospect but the season hadn't run long before he was shunted to Syracuse. He couldn't locate the plate often enough.

Easier to Wait.

Johnny was second in the International league in opponents' batting marks, and third in strikeouts, but batters found it easier to wait him out for a walk than to try and hit him.

Vander Meer doesn't know whether he'll ever gain control.

"Gosh, I can't figure it out," he grins. "I pitch good ball some days but just as often I can't seem to keep the ball in the park.

The blond, fluffy-haired youngster got a break this year when the veteran Bill McKechnie became manager of the Reds. McKechnie is known as perhaps the cleverest pilot in developing hurlers. He coaxed Jim Turner and Lou Fette, 30-odd-year-old minor-league recruits into winning 20 games each for the Boston Bees last season. And he hopes to harness some of Vander Meer's talent.

Learns From McKechnie.

"McKechnie has taught me plenty this spring. He made me quit my sidearm delivery and toss overhand so that the ball was always in front of me," Johnny explains. "He's also altered my stance, so that I finish my throw with my feet balanced on a level. I think it's going to help me."

The Reds' skipper thinks Vander Meer is a comer, but he isn't sure how far away he is from being a major-league twirler. "If Johnny and some of those other potentials we have come through, Cincinnati is going to give the league some surprises," McKechnie says.

LUTHERANS GAIN SHARE OF TITLE

First Lutheran cinched a share of the Church Class A basketball league championship last night, although the club didn't see action on the program at the Y. M. C. A.

The leaders were to tackle the United Presbyterians, but the latter club forfeited the game. While the Lutherans were climbing nearer the crown, the runner-up First M. E., outfit, staging a determined last-half rally, emerged with a 36 to 35 decision over St. Paul's to remain a half game behind. St. Paul led, 22 to 15, at halftime.

In the other tilts, Episcopal moved into third place by edging Temple Emanuel, 26 to 24, in a thrilling affair in which Burback sank the winning basket in the last minute. St. John's drubbed Baptist, 50 to 21, and Mayflower defeated Central M. E., 32 to 20.

CLEVELAND BOWS, 9-8

NEW ORLEANS — (INS) — The Cleveland Indians returned here today to open a two-game series with the Philadelphia Athletics after dropping a 9 to 8 decision to Jersey City at Lafayette yesterday. Bob Feller, Johnny Allen and Joe Heving were scheduled for mound duty in the opening game with the Mackmen.

The Indians were leading the Jersey City club 4 to 2 up to the eighth inning in yesterday's slugfest, when the Skeeters opened up and tallied seven runs.

With the bases full in the ninth inning, Earl Averill hit his first home run of the year, but the four runs were not enough to overtake the lead Jersey had piled up.

Johnny Humphries, who replaced Earl Whitehill on the mound for the Tribe in the fifth inning, was credited with the loss. He was touched for nine hits in the three and two-thirds innings he pitched. Al Milnar finished the mound duties for the Tribe.

Landis Rules Against Cards

BELLEAIR, Fla. — (U.P.) — The baseball world waited today for Branch Rickey's answer to Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis' denunciation of the St. Louis Cardinals' methods of operating their "chain store baseball system."

In nearby St. Peterburg, Rickey promised to reply in detail to the findings of Commissioner Landis, but asked time to digest the Landis' nine pages and nearly 5,000 words.

The aftermath of Landis' decision which declared an estimated 100 players free agents and assessed fines totaling $2,176 on three Cardinal farm clubs, Springfield, Mo., and Cedar Rapids, Ia., both of the Western league, and Sacramento, Pacific league, may not be known for some time.

It may be the beginning of a war between Landis and Rickey over "chain store baseball" or it may prove to be an unimportant decision affecting a lot of "5 and 10" ball players.

DRAW FOR ALLEYS IN CITY MEET

Bowlers will not be permitted a chance to pick their favorite alleys in the City bowling tournament to open at the Meder Recreation alleys Tuesday night, W. S. (Brig) Young, Mansfield Bowling association secretary, said today.

Keglers will draw for alleys in the five-man event, and the doubles and singles will start on alleys next to those on which they finish, Young explained.

Young also warned team captains to heed the deadline for entries, which is Saturday. As it will be necessary to draw up a schedule immediately, no teams will be accepted after the deadline.

Entry fees are $1 per event, with 40 cents of each dollar going into the prize fund. Awards emblematic of city championships in the handicap tournament will be presented by The News-Journal.

Dozen Pins Keep 'Frisco Team Out of Lead.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Only a dozen pins kept the Calvert Distillery team of San Francisco out of first place in the American bowling congress standings today. The failure of the team to score 12 more points last night deprived it of a tie for first with the Mystery Men five of St. Louis.

The Calverts rolled a 3,023 total the hard way, starting poorly and finishing with a blaze of power on games of 970, 951, 1102.

CITY PREPARES FOR OILING OF 259 ROADWAYS

60,000 Gallons of Oil to Be Used by Street Department In 1938 Program.

The oiling of 168 streets and 91 alleys this spring, involving approximately 25 miles of roadway and constituting one of the major items on the 1938 program of the street department was outlined today by George Berg, chairman of council's street committee

An ordinance calling for the oiling is being drafted by the street committee and will be ready for the approval of council within the next few weeks, Berg said.

Waits Warmer Weather.

He explained that the oiling process will not get under way until warmer weather arrives—not before May 1, and possibly not until June 1. The program includes practically all unimproved roadways in the city, a more extensive program than was carried on last summer

All roads included in the oiling program are to be scraped and graded to a smooth condition before the coating is applied

The city board of control has already contracted for the purchase of approximately 60,000 gallons of road oil at the cost of $8,000. This is approximately 10,000 gallons more than was used on the city streets last summer.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Battle of Wits Between Two Women Holds Spotlight in Players' Finale

'First Lady' Built Around Caustic Dialog of Two Principals of Play.

A battle of wits between two women is the underlying theme of "First Lady," the George S Kaufman-Katharine

AMY CARPENTER DOUGLASS as Lucy.

Dayton comedy which the Community Players present Tuesday evening at Senior high school auditorium

Both women are clever, one a bit unscrupulous, the other with a rapier-like wit, and both fired with the same ambition—to win the candidancy for president for their husbands

Players for these two roles, the most important in the play, were carefully selected by Helen Bacon, director of the Players. Amy Carpenter Douglass, of Cleveland, a former Mansfield resident and star of several early Community productions, returns to play the title role of Lucy Chase Wayne. Melva Graham, with the Community Players for several years, who has scored in "Dark Tower" and "Counsellor-at-law" plays Irene Hibbard, described in the original play as "born Irene Baker of Mansfield, O but Europe was her finishing school"

Lucy is the wife of a cabinet member and the daughter of a former president of the United States and she is determined that her husband shall be the next candidate for president. Irene once married to a foreign prince, but now the wife of Carter Hibbard, Supreme Court justice. Lucy has the reputation of being the wit of Washington, and whenever the two women get together everyone within hearing waits expectantly for the fireworks, for Irene is also a mistress of repartee. In act one there is this bit of dialog between them, at a tea in Lucy's home

IRENE Really, it must be frightful for you to have to do this sort of thing, Lucy—these terrible crowds People who don't care anything about you, nor you about them Politics would simply kill me. But then, I'm too sincere.

LUCY You seem to take an interest in politics lately, Irene. I saw you lunching with old Senator Taylor today—you were having a wonderful time.

IRENE Were you there?

LUCY And Senator Taylor too—I never saw him so captivated How I envy you your knack with older men! Which reminds me, how's your husband? He didn't come with you, did he?

IRENE No, Carter's busy He's writing a minority opinion.

LUCY Again? I'm so sorry.

IRENE Well, at least Carter can afford to express an opinion The bench is permanent.

LUCY Yes, it must give you such a comfortable feeling, like royalty almost But you WERE, almost, weren't you? Of course! What was that fascinating little country you lived in?

IRENE If you mean Prince Gregoravitch's country, it was Slovania

LUCY Oh, yes. Slovania. Irene had the most beautiful crest—a gorgeous crown, and unicorns sitting on sweetbreads, or something—that's one thing you got out of it anyway, Irene. That crest. I remember when you had the place at Middleburg, how beautiful it looked on the bed linens! Of course, it always left welts in the funniest places!

The climax of the play is reached when it seems that Irene has outwitted Lucy and that Carter Hibbard will be the next presidential candidate of his party

All of Lucy's ambitions for her husband seem to have been lost, when the famous "wit of Washington," lives up to her reputation effects a "bloodless coup" which completely routs her enemy and leaves her and her husband in complete control of the situation. The coup, of course, has to do with that same

MELVA GRAHAM as Irene.

royal crest which had been the pride of Irene's heart

There are a number of other characters—it is a long cast—but all of them are really supporting roles for the two women.

"First Lady" is the final play of the 1937-38 season of the Players It was highly successful as a stage vehicle for Jane Cowl and more recently as a screen role for Kay Francis
